

Goldfine and Aide Guilty Of Contempt

Learn Fate Monday;
Industrialist Denies Additional Charges

Boston —(AP)—Industrialist Bernard Goldfine was convicted in federal court today of criminal contempt for failure to comply with the court's order to produce records of one of his textile mills in a tax probe.

At about the same time that Judge Charles E. Wyzanski, Jr., was filing his decision with the court clerk, the 67-year-old Goldfine was pleading innocent in Washington to a contempt of congress indictment.

Goldfine's secretary, Miss Mildred Paperman, also was found guilty of criminal contempt in regard to the Strathmore Mills of Boston and the Northfield Mills of Northfield, Vt., two other Goldfine enterprises.

The Goldfine conviction was on books of the Lebanon Mills of Lebanon, N.H.

Refused Data
Goldfine was found innocent on complaints regarding the records of the Lebanon Mills of Lebanon, N.H., and George Mabbett & Sons Co., of Plymouth, Mass.

In Washington Goldfine is accused of flouting congress by refusing to tell house investigators enough about his financial dealings.

It was in the Washington hearing that it was brought out Goldfine had made gifts to former President Aides Sherman Adams and other public officials.

He stepped forward briskly today when his name was called in U.S. district court in the nation's capital. He pleaded "not guilty" in a firm voice. Judge John J. Sirica set his trial for March 16.

"Goldfine later went to a marshal's office to be fingerprinted. He posted a $1,000 bond, provided by a professional bondsman.

He had little to say to reporters and was unaware at the time of the court action in Boston.

In the Boston decision, filed in long hand, Judge Wyzanski said he will impose sentence on Monday at 10 a.m.

The court said: "They will be sentenced for their respective contempts committed in defiance of this court's interim order of Dec. 5, and the specific warnings to them which accompanied the issuance of that order."

A 2-day trial ended here yesterday after final arguments by the government and defense on charge that the pair withheld documents from the internal revenue service.

620 Traffic Deaths Forecast During Christmas Weekend

Chicago —(AP)—The National Safety council today estimated that 620 Americans will be killed in traffic accidents during the 4-day Christmas holidays period.

The period will begin at 6 p.m. (local time) Wednesday, Dec. 24, and will end at midnight Sunday, Dec. 27.

"Those deaths need not occur and should not occur," the council said.

And it provided this prescription for driving and staying alive:

Start early, cut speed to meet traffic and weather conditions, pull off the road if you feel tired or sleepy.

If you've been drinking, the council added, don't drive.

Miss Christmas Parties, Exams

Nearly 40,000 students in Winnebago county and Appleton are missing the traditional Christmas parties in their schools today. Many of them also are missing some final tests.

The Appleton - Manitowoc basketball game will go on as scheduled tonight in the high school gymnasium.

Oshkosh — A tipster this morning informed the Winnebago county sheriff's department that a girl had placed the bomb scare call which Thursday afternoon resulted in evacuation of over 1,700 Oshkosh High school students.

He gave both his name and that of the girl to the radio operator. The information was turned over to the Oshkosh police department for investigation. Neither name was revealed.

"No Joke"
A total of 88 schools and colleges in the state were closed to permit a search of the buildings involved. There have been 18 such threats in the last 13 days. Police officers, firemen and school maintenance workers failed to find any bombs.

The Winnebago caller about 8:40 p.m. Thursday told Sheriff Charles Lowry that a bomb was in a county school and that "this is no joke." Lowry Pravda devoted more than a half page to Eaton's speech, delivered before the Economic Club of Detroit after a trip to Moscow. The communist party newspaper also published a big picture of Eaton and Khrushchev taken in the Kremlin Sept. 1.

The story, which quoted accounts of the Detroit Times and Free Press, was broadcast by Radio Moscow in its Russian language home service.

Deputy Premier Anastas I. Mikoyan, one of Khrushchev's top aides, already is scheduled to go to Washington early in January.

The settlement came after almost continuous bargaining sessions that began yesterday.

C. Patrick Quinn, president of Dodge Local 3, called the settlement fair to both sides.

"I believe both sides will be able to live with it," he said.

The union arranged to buy radio time, presumably to summon its Dodge local to a membership meeting.

Bulganin Tries To Erase Shame Of His Errors

Admits Anti-Party
Promises Reform

Moscow —(AP)—Former Premier Nikolai Bulganin, after confessing political sins against the communist party, says he is starting a new life at the age of 63 and will try to live down his shame.

Bulganin ended his confessions of anti-party activities before the party central committee yesterday by appealing to committeemen to help him become a good and successful official at his present post.

That position is chairman of the territorial economic council at remote Stavropol. As quoted today in the communist party newspaper Pravda, Bulganin said:

"I have sincerely confessed my mistakes. I have asked the central committee to help me to get on the correct party road again. I am sincerely endeavoring to fulfill the duty with which the central committee has entrusted me as chairman of the Stavropol economic council.

Tries to Remove Shame
"And here I say in all frankness and sincerity that I will honestly and without sparing my forces endeavor to remove from myself this spot of shame."

Thus spoke the man who as premier once ruled millions and shared the limelight with Nikita Khrushchev on visits to Britain, India, Burma and Afghanistan.

Khrushchev was in excellent humor at the committee session as he listened without interruption to Bulganin's long statement on the mistakes and misdeeds of the anti-party group of former Premier Georgi Malenkov, former Foreign Ministers V. M. Molotov and Dmitri Shepilov and former economic boss Lazar Kaganovich.

Bulganin's confession confirmed what was long known in Moscow—that he voted against Khrushchev and his policies in a meeting of the communist party presidium after the two leaders returned from a visit to Finland in June of 1957.

They got across the point by playing up a Nov. 24 speech of Cleveland industrialist Cyrus S. Eaton suggesting an exchange of good will visits between the Soviet Premier and President Eisenhower.

Satellite Cheered In Western Europe

Agree U. S. Now Ahead of Russia in Space Contest

BY RAYMOND E. PALMER

London —(AP)—Western Europe greeted America's latest and greatest satellite with bold headlines today. They said the 4½-ton giant put the United States in front of the Russians in the race into space.

Even the man in the Moscow street said, "Good, it gives us competition."

The huge man-made satellite was front page news in Britain, Sweden, West Germany, France, Austria, Italy, Norway and Denmark.

Ahead of Russians
Rome's independent Il Tempo said the American accomplishment had "amply surpassed Soviet Russia in the race for conquest of space."

The communist line Paese Sera spread the story over six front page columns.

In Vienna, the Neuer Kurier declared that "with this performance the Americans have shot ahead of the Russians in the satellite race."

In Copenhagen, the newspaper Aftenbladet headlined its story: "The U. S. Wins the Victory in Space." The newspaper B. T. told its Danish readers:

"The Americans have now seriously challenged the Soviet Union to start a space race and have at the same time established without doubt that they have a military rocket able to reach from continent to continent."

The French government radio said the Atlas was the final boom for the NATO conference which has just ended.

In Britain, newspapers conveyed the size of the huge satellite by comparing it to the length of two of London's big red buses parked nose-to-tail.

London afternoon papers tagged it "the talking moon" and "the speaking satellite."

A spokesman at Moscow's planetarium, told of the size of the satellite, said: "That's very interesting. That is sci-

Equipment Sends, Gets Messages

Washington —(AP)—U. S. rocketmen hurled a 4-ton satellite into orbit around the earth last night, a great stride toward outer space and man's mastery there.

The feat, dramatically announced by President Eisenhower at a White House diplomatic dinner, gave this country the biggest known man-made object now swinging around the planet. The new Pullman car-size satellite dwarfs the 2,919 pounds of Russia's Sputnik III launched last May 15. It comes close to, or surpasses the bulk of the Soviet carrier rocket which went into orbit but plunged to its death Dec. 7.

Even more significant from the rocketmen's viewpoint are two other features:

The space traveler, dubbed "Operation Score," carries 2-way communications which promise untold practical benefits for the future.

It was pointed into its path by an internal guidance system, rather than being sent on a pre-set course like a bullet — a long step toward true space navigation.

Triumphant over the success of their project, American scientists began talking about putting a man aboard another such vehicle and sending it to Venus or Mars.

President Eisenhower called it "a distinct step forward... (which) opens new opportunities to the United States and all mankind." The Pentagon echoed his words, according the peaceful aspects of the satellite.

Early comment from members of congress indicated a preference to dwell on what it means in military terms.

85 Feet Long

Eisenhower broke the news dramatically at a White House state dinner for diplomats, White House Press Secretary James C. Hagerty and Pentagon officials spread the word to reporters and the world.

The Atlas intercontinental ballistic missile was launched at 5:02 p. m. CST yesterday from Cape Canaveral, Fla. The whole thing, 85 feet long and 10 feet wide, went into orbit.

It is the biggest known man-made object swinging around the globe. Its weight, between 8,700 and 8,800 pounds, nearly trebles the 2,919 pounds of Russia's Sputnik III.

Sputnik III's rocket, variously estimated to weigh between two and five tons, trailed it until being burned up by air friction Dec. 2.

The Atlas' orbit girdles the earth every 100 minutes at altitudes varying between 118 to 625 miles. Its path is within a maximum latitude of 32 degrees north and 32 degrees south of the equator.

Life Set at 20 Days

Most Americans can see it, glowing like a star, especially at dusk and in the south. Its estimated life aloft is 20 days.

Radio signals for tracking purposes are coming from the giant artificial moon on two frequencies, 107.97 megacycles and 107.94 megacycles.

Some 80 passengers on a Miami-to-Chicago airliner saw the launching.

The plane, a Delta Air Lines DC7B, was flying at 19,000 feet over Vero Beach, Fla., when the missile was fired from Cape Canaveral about 60 miles to the north.

Moon-watchers at El Paso, Texas, were first to report spotting it visually. They reported at 8:30 p. m. CST that it glowed at 11 magnitude, just a bit brighter than the stars in the milk way.

The air force calls its satellite "Operation Score," after the first letters of the words "signal, communications, orbit, relay experiment." These summed up its purposes except for the basic one.

This was to see if the Atlas would fly as faithfully as it

Says Gunaca Told Of Beating Workers

Detective Witness at Hearing For UAW Organizer Charged With Attacking Non-Strikers

Sheboygan —A detective testified Thursday that former UAW union organizer John Gunaca of Detroit admitted beating two non-striking Kohler Co. workers but said he would never have to stand trial.

"Sarge, this will never do you any good. Mazey will never leave Soapy send me back to Wisconsin," Sgt. Conrad Konetshny of the Michigan state police quoted Gunaca as saying. The officer said Gunaca was referring to Emil Mazey, secretary-treasurer of the UAW, and Michigan Gov. G. Mennen Williams.

Konetshny was a surprise witness at Gunaca's preliminary hearing on two charges of felonious assault.

Charged With Beating Gunaca, a former member of a Detroit UAW local now working as a bartender, is charged with beating William Bersch Jr., and his now deceased father, William Sr., on the night of July 4, 1954. Local 833 of the UAW struck the Kohler plumbingware firm on April 5, 1954. The company resumed production with new workers and non-striking after eight weeks after the strike began. The company remains in production and the strike continues.

Navy Cutback Spells End to Missile Plans

Will Close, Reduce, Or Merge 30 Bases Due to Rising Costs

Washington—A—Costs and weapons advances have triggered a sweeping navy cutback in shore establishments and spelled the end to a major missile program.

To keep pace with cutdowns in its operating forces, the navy said last night, 30 ground bases in 17 states will be closed, reduced or merged.

The announcement spoke of rising prices and higher labor costs. About 9,000 civilian jobs will be abolished over the next several years.

Canceled after an outlay of $78 million was the Regulus II guided missile program. The air-breathing missile can soar more than 1,000 miles at twice the speed of sound. It flew in about 40 successful tests.

Better Potential The navy figured that by jettisoning Regulus II now it could save more than $100 million for other projects. It said ballistic missiles — shot more like bullet — have better potential than the air-breathers guided like pilotless planes.

The navy is now developing the Polaris 1,800-mile range ballistic missile. Like the Regulus, the Polaris could be fired with a nuclear warhead from submarines.

F. O. Detweiler, president of Chance Vought Aircraft, Inc., which held the Regulus development contract, said the cancellation will leave "a void that cannot be filled by any other weapon in existence or planned." He blamed the navy action solely on budget limits.

Testimony by Konetshny contradicted Gunaca's sworn statement at Iron Mountain, Mich., Feb. 28, 1957, when he denied he was in Sheboygan Falls on the night the two men were beaten.

GI Turncoat Emerges From Red China

Deserter Declares He Has Nothing To Be Ashamed of

Hong Kong —A—Richard G. Corden, ringleader of the 21 American turncoats of the Korean war, emerged from red China today spouting the communist line full blast.

Corden, 31, from East Providence, R. I., told a news conference:

"I firmly believe there is more democracy in communist China than in the United States. I've got nothing to be ashamed of, I learned a lot."

"He would like to see 'socialism' — more or less on the pattern of the system in the Soviet Union" take over in the United States, and thinks it inevitable. But he feels it will be a long process.

Very Impressed He was "very impressed with communist China's achievements" but he had not become a member of the communist party.

He left communist China because he was homesick and could not finish his studies in ancient Chinese literature. He explained that under Peiping's "big leap forward" campaign to speed up industrialization, all students had abandoned their books for work in the fields and factories.

Corden said he volunteered to carry baskets of earth on a dike project near Wuhan but "it was tough work and I could not keep it up."

10th to Return He is the 10th of the turncoats to return from red China. One other died there. Corden said the 10 still behind the bamboo curtain are doing well and he knows of none who want to return to America.

He denied charges of other Korean war prisoners that he had informed on them and that he was the leader of the turncoat group. "I don't think I'm a turncoat," he declared.

Corden conceded he expected a mixed reception in the United States. He expressed hope he could do work utilizing his knowledge of Chinese.

He said he'd like to return to China to visit some time but not to live.

The U. S. consulate probably will put Corden on the first available ship for the United States. He has a sister and grandparents in Rhode Island.

Barge, Equipment Sold at Auction

Sheboygan —A—A barge and its equipment used in the unsuccessful attempt to raise the Prince William V from Lake Michigan off Milwaukee was sold at an auction Thursday for a total of $8,330.95.

Diver Max Nohl of Milwaukee, whose complaint led to seizure of the barge a month ago, brought the craft for $900. The crane was sold for $2,500 to Capt. Richard A. Meyers, a vice president of Seaboard Excavators, Inc.

Nohl, secretary of Seaboard, brought a $5,108 suit against the firm in federal court for back wages and advances he said he'd made to the firm.

Sold under the order of U. S. District Court Judge Robert Tehan of Milwaukee, the barge was seized Nov. 4 on Lake Michigan off Port Washington by federal marshals. It had been tied up here since.

Nazi Torture Victims In U. S. for Treatment

Polish Women Were Used by Germans To Test Use of Sulfa Drugs on Wounds

New York—A—The wonder of it is, that they can still smile—these 27 women who underwent tortures as the human guinea pigs in Nazi experiments.

The women, flown in yesterday from Warsaw, chattered happily when the big plane dropped down from above the clouds to give them their first view of America.

But physically, it was a painful exit from the Pan American airways plane at Idlewild airport. It was the halt leading the lame, and here is why:

At one time their legs had been cut open, their bones broken or shattered. Poisonous bacilli or gangrenous-causing material such as glass, wood, dirt and soiled rags were sealed into their legs.

Tested Drugs It happened 1942-44, at Ravensbruck in east Germany. German doctors selected 79 healthy young women—members of the Polish resistance—to test the power of sulfa drugs in fighting serious infections developing from untreated battle wounds.

Methodically the legs of the women, who were young then, were cut open. Then the breaking and splintering of the bones, the alien materials introduced, and the wait for the inevitable raging fevers.

As the victims neared death, the sulfa drugs were applied.

Again the wonder of it: of the 79 women, 53 survive. Eight more will be brought here in January.

What condition are they in now? They have a variety of diseases, such as cardiac ailments, osteomyelitis, pernicious anemia, tuberculosis, hypertension, asthma. And they have constant leg pains.

Only Support Since the end of World war II the only support the women had received was from the Polish government. But last summer a group of Americans, the Hiroshima peace center associates, decided to help them. The group already

Cushing Cites Loyalty of U. S. Catholics

New Prelate Makes Declaration in Rites At Ancient Church

Rome —A—Richard Cardinal Cushing today pledged the loyalty of America's Catholics to Pope John XXIII and his successors.

The Archbishop of Boston made this declaration in an address today at the ceremony of taking possession of his titular church in Rome, historic Santa Susanna, which is used by American Catholics.

Said Cardinal Cushing: "I pledge to Pope John and to his successors that filial loyalty which has always characterized the Catholic people in the United States which is associated with the church of St. Susanna."

Thanks Pope Cardinal Cushing said he also thanked the pope on behalf of non-Catholic Americans who, he said, have shown "that they are deeply sensible of the honor conferred upon our common country."

"Any sentiments inconsistent with this spirit, no matter by whom expressed," the Cardinal asserted, "do not reflect the general American understanding of faith and freedom, and the American esteem for the person of the holy father, with reverent solicitude for his apostolic work in Rome and in the world community."

Church Assignment The assignment of Santa Susanna to Cardinal Cushing was announced by Pope John yesterday, after completion of ceremonies in which the Boston archbishop, Archbishop John O'Hara of Philadelphia and 18 other prelates were elevated to the purple.

Each new cardinal becomes patron of a church in Rome, so that all cardinals may be considered Romans.

Santa Susanna was the titular church of Edward Cardinal Mooney, archbishop of Detroit, who died Oct. 25.

The ancient church, in downtown Rome, was built in its present form in 1603.

Sisters Reunited One of the arrivals, Wladyslawa Karolewska, 49, was met at the airport by her sister, Mrs. Helen Piasecka of Cleveland, Ohio.

Mrs. Piasecka also had been confined to the concentration camp. She knew the women and what they had been through.

The sisters will spend Christmas at the home of Miss Caroline Ferriday in Bethlehem, Conn.

To her compatriots, Mrs. Piasecka presented a bright and smiling face. But aside to newsmen, her face showed some of the remembered horrors. "They looked so changed," she murmured, "You can see the pain and suffering in their faces."

Divorcee Claims She Aided Holdup That Ended With Slaying

Tells Police Seaman Took $50, Then Shot Kenosha Bar-Owner

Kenosha —A—A 21-year-old divorcee, promising "to tell the truth this time," changed her story Thursday and said she participated in the $50 holdup that ended in the slaying of Arthur Molinaro, a popular Kenosha tavern owner.

She again named seaman Ivo Ivanic as the killer. Mrs. Barbara White of Milwaukee, who had become hysterical after taking a lie detector test, was quoted by police as saying that after Ivanic had robbed Molinaro, the Great Lakes sailor muttered something "about dead men tell no tales" and shot Molinaro six times.

Lt. Arthur Riley commented: "We've gotten so many lies that we don't know if the story she is telling now is the truth. We won't know until we do more lie detector work."

The 58-year-old Molinaro was found in his lounge Dec. 4, dying of eight bullet wounds. His hands had been bound in front of him with his necktie.

Visiting Russians Have Camera Day in Labs San Francisco —A—It looked like camera day with the visiting Russians yesterday. And it was a 2-way picture taking.

Some of the 67 Russian scientists visiting the bay area toured University of California laboratories. Most carried cameras, and used them freely.

The Russians came on the Soviet laboratory ship, Vityaz, which has been doing oceanographic research for the International Geophysical Year.

More than 1,000 Americans visited the Vityaz, on which Capt. Igor Sergeev held open house. Many of them snapped pictures.

Tied Victim The seaman used the weapon to force Molinaro to submit to having his hands and feet tied. Ivanic then began searching the tavern office but found nothing of value before discovering the $50 in the cash register.

Mrs. White said that after the shooting Ivanic dragged Molinaro into his office and then fled, going to a restaurant where Ivanic gave her $50 and told her and Kuzel to "get out of town."

She returned to the hotel and Kuzel. They left a few hours later and were arrested in Milwaukee last weekend. Ivanic was picked up in Michigan last Monday.

Child Not Kidnaped, Just Angry at Santa

Denver —A—Bennie Hurtado, 10, told the policeman he had been kidnaped — but he hadn't really. It was just that he was angry with Santa Claus.

When Bennie spied a pair of blue jeans which his parents had bought, he thought that was his Christmas present instead of a toy machine gun which he'd asked Santa to bring.

Bennie headed a different direction when school let out. He walked for nearly four hours before stopping a service station attendant and asking him to call the police.

"I was kidnaped by three men in a car," Bennie told Deputy Sheriff Bob Elliott.

Then Bennie admitted it was a fib. Elliott took the tired youngster home, where a toy machine gun is waiting for Christmas.

Free Convertibility True in Tangier

BY SYLVIA PORTER

Tangier — We ordered a couple of drinks from the Arabic-speaking bartender at the El Minzah hotel in this globally-famous free city of Tangier at the northern tip of Africa. In accordance with the agreement I had previously made with my husband that I be our banker in Tangier, I dug into my purse and offered Spanish pesetas in payment. The bartender took the pesetas, nonchalantly consulted a table in the newspaper near the cash register, handed me some Moroccan francs in change.

Porter

We went to a nearby shop where I bought three bottles of perfume. This time I offered Italian lire in payment. The saleslady took my lire, made a short phone call, spoke a few words in Arabic, came back and gave me change in Moroccan francs.

We went to another store where my husband bought an inexpensive wrist watch. For this purchase, I offered U.S. dollars to the salesclerk and asked for change in dollars. I promptly got my change in dollars.

In one restaurant I paid for our meal in British pounds, requested and received pounds and shillings in change. In a cafe I bought our cups of coffee with Swiss francs. To our guide through the Casbah I gave a tip in Swedish kronor.

Double Eagle — And finally, at 10:30 p.m. on the second evening we were in Tangier, I kept an appointment in the El Minzah bar again with Jacob Alster, head of a bank bearing his name, handed over $42 in dollars and became the proud owner of a U.S. double eagle—a heavy, $20 gold piece minted in 1910. I had never seen one either.

"Now at last, I really understand all the fancy double-talk about free convertibility of currencies," said my husband as we started separating our paper currencies into little piles so we could change the lot for Portuguese escudos before we left Tangier.

And although I've often written glibly about the meaning of currency convertibility, it was in Tangier that I, too, truly grasped for the first time what those words stand for.

To be able to exchange one currency for another in a minute and without red tape . . . To be able to carry currencies across national borders without restriction . . . To be able to offer any of dozens of currencies in payment for goods or services in any nation and have the currencies accepted without question . . . this is free convertibility.

Just the mention of Tangier immediately conjures up visions of the Casbah, tales of smugglers and their caves, whispers of international intrigue.

And Tangier is, in fact, a free city, one of the few in the world.

There is no income tax.

No Duty — There is no duty on imports, no ban on exports. "You want to take out 1,000 cases of cigarettes, 100 tons of gold?" said one businessman we met. "It can be arranged. The illegality is not here. The illegality is on the other side, where you live."

This is the stuff of which TV dramas are made and on which tourists thrive. But Tangier is much more than a city in which anything goes.

Tangier symbolizes a freedom in international finance beyond any experience which you and I have.

Up and down the streets of the city the money-changers stand in their little booths. I walked up to one at random and bought my small piles of paper—for one dollar 625 Italian lire, for another 494 Belgian francs, for a third 44 Swiss francs. Then we began our experiment in "living" convertibility of currencies.

Can you imagine a U. S. shopkeeper cheerfully accepting payment in Italian lire, a hometown waitress quietly taking payment in kronor or francs?

Can you think of many people (including yourself) who would even recognize most foreign currencies—much less know the value of each in terms of dollars or how to check a currency's value quickly?

Move Freely — There was a time when currencies did move freely across borders—but that was before World War I and most of us weren't even alive.

There was a time when owning a gold coin in our land was commonplace and a popular Christmas gift was a small gold piece—but that was before ownership of gold by Americans was deemed unlawful in 1933.

Maybe some day what we experienced in the free city of Tangier will be typical again—but the day is in the far, unforeseeable future.

Youngster Plants Seed, Now Eats Watermelon

Jacksonville, Fla. — (AP) — When her dad was planting a garden in July, 4-year-old Evelyn Wiggins was being helpful.

Her mother, seeing this wasn't exactly speeding dad's work, gave Evelyn some watermelon seeds and showed her where to plant them out of dad's way.

Evelyn's watermelon patch was more or less ignored after the planting—but now the family is enjoying tasty out of season watermelons.

"And I just love watermelon better than anything," Evelyn reported.

Leaders Win Kimberly Tilts, Play Each Other Tuesday

Kimberly — Mill's Barber-Dud's was held to only five victories in Village Basketball points.

Top Scorer — Al Hammen had 14 points to lead Mill's and Dick Van Hammond took runner-up honors with 13. Dennis Wydevon clipped in with nine. Dick Verbeten was the top scorer of the game as he counted 25 for Dud's. He had 11 buckets and three free throws.

Shy's had only a 21 to 15 lead at the half over Bill's but turned on the steam in the third and fourth quarters to grab the easy win.

The winners scored 16 in the third frame while Bill's was held to eight and in the fourth period Shy's added 24 while the losers managed only four.

Hank Peeterboom paced Dud's with 15 while his brother Gene followed with 14. Jerry Roovers had 11 and Tom Dud's connected with 10.

Bill's was led by Jerry Van Toll with eight and Ken Wil-Mit's bagged 15 markers hamson with six.

Good Old Ads on Retirement Keep Upping Ante Each Year

Ever since I was a very young man I have been fascinated by those insurance ads that always run in the front of the magazines.

"How we retired in 15 years with X dollars a month."

The picture over the title always showed a handsome, young-looking gray-haired man, dressed in sports clothes and smoking a pipe or toting a fishing rod.

His handsome, gray-haired wife was smiling at him, against a backdrop of roses or palm trees or speedboats or something connoting retirement.

As I recall—could be wrong—the first one was: "How we retired in 15 years with $50 a month." Then it jumped to $100 a month, moved up to $150, proceeded to $200, jumped another $50, and currently is: "How we retired in 15 years with $300 a month."

Some unholy attraction drew me to those ads. The body of the type always said how old Charlie was getting, along, hadn't save any money, or lost his dough in a blue-sky gamble, or used up his savings on sickness or death or education. All he could look forward to was a tired old age, plugging away at the same old job. (None of these people ever seems to have had a job they liked.)

Idly Loafing — But then one day while Charlie was waiting for Peg or Nell or good old Grace to get dressed for the movies, he idly leafed through a magazine and came to this ad about a person exactly like himself, who had taken advantage of the insurance company's retirement plan and now was living it up in Florida or California without a care in the world. So good old Charlie clipped the coupon, sent it away, and got back a booklet telling him how he, too, etc. So today Charlie's retired and happy as the clams he digs.

This is a preamble to the indisputable fact that the idea of a gracious retirement has leaped, in the past 20 years, from $100 to $300 a month.

Puny Payment — A hundred a month looked good to me 20 years ago, if it was money I didn't have to work for. It looks powerful puny today—possibly as puny as $300 will look tomorrow.

I wonder, since the government sticks its nose into nearly everything, if some sort of legislative adjustment should not morally be made—some sort of prorating of the average year-by-year value of the money as it is paid into an annuity or an endowment?

I realize this will make me no friends in the insurance business. But every time I pick up those magazines I can't help but remember that when I started buying insurance, 100 bucks a month was thought to be enough for good old Charlie and Nell to live out their days on, and, boy, look at them now.

Chuters Aim For Upset of Springs Team

Last Tilt Before Holiday Layoff For St. John High

Little Chute — With their eyes set on turning in an upset in the Fox Valley Catholic conference, the St. John High basketball cagers will meet St. Mary Springs at Fond du Lac Saturday night.

Springs is rated as one of the top teams in the conference and has won six of seven games played this season. The only loss suffered by the Ledgers was to St. Mary's Menasha in loop action.

St. John has a 1-1 league record. The Dutchmen edged St. Norbert 84 to 82 and lost a heartbreaker to Premonite at Green Bay 57 to 54. The Chuters led in that game for better than three quarters before fading.

4th Quarter Jinx — Coach Bill Fitzpatrick is hoping the fourth quarter jinx that has plagued his team this season will be broken Saturday. St. John has a record of 5-3 and one loss was by one point and another by three.

The Springs tilt will be the final one for the Dutchmen prior to the holiday vacation which will run for two weeks. The next game for Little Chute will be Jan. 5 when powerful Kimberly invades the St. John gym.

Starters for St. John Saturday will include Andy Ebben and Tim Tousey at guards, Tom Geerts at center and Ed Hammen and Don Hermesen at forwards.

Fitzpatrick has been doing a lot of substituting this season and reserves bound to see action include Mike Bongers, Gary Versteegen, Kieth Versteegen, Harland Hietpas, Dick Hietpas and Tom Miron.

Villages Get Increased Utility Tax From State

Little Chute — A better than $1,000 increase in the utility tax refund was received by the village, according to Mrs. Loretta Versteegen, clerk-treasurer.

The increase is based on figures comparing the amount received this year with what was received in 1957.

This year the village got a check for $6,636.41 compared to $4,584.49 last year. This is an increase of $2,051.92. Reason for the increase is the installation of natural gas lines throughout the village in the last year.

The breakdown of the refund shows the amount from the Green Bay and Mississippi Canal is $211.93, Kaukauna Municipal Utility, $4,630.07; Winnebago Natural Gas company, $1,789.96; and Michigan-Wisconsin Pipeline, $4.45.

Police Chief Issues Warning on Chasing Emergency Vehicles

Kaukauna — A fire call answered by firemen Wednesday evening led to a stern warning by Harold V. Engerson, chief of police, to motorists who make it a habit of following emergency vehicles.

Failure to yield the right-of-way to fire trucks, police cars and ambulances is a violation of city ordinances and following these vehicles to the scene of the alarm is also against the law. Police officers have been instructed to arrest persons violating these ordinances.

Cars following the fire trucks also cause a traffic problem when parking and flareup made it appear the fire inside of the building was burning.

Kaukauna High Innovation

First Operetta, Musicales Wins Audience Favor

Kaukauna—About 750 adults and many students expressed their appreciation for the operetta and musical program offered by the Kaukauna High school vocal department Wednesday night in the school auditorium.

The operetta, "Hark, The Herald Angels Sing," was an innovation this year and was staged under the direction of Adrian McGrath, vocal instructor. Assisting with the performance were Miss Barbara Little, instructor in charge of the drama group at the school, and James Kreitzer, art instructor, who supervised the stage and art work.

Soprano Solo — Opening the program was Miss Marjorie Malkson, grade school vocal teacher, who sang "I Wonder as I Wander," and "No Candle Was There and No Fire." The soprano was accompanied at the piano by Mrs. Guy Krumm, instructor at Park grade school.

Joanne Vandehey, a junior at the high school, presented a pantomime on "I Yust Go Nuts at Christmas." The freshmen-sophomore girls' glee club sang "Winter Wonderland," "The Birthday of a King," and "Mister Santa." A chorus of seventh grade boys, singing soprano, also offered several Christmas carols. Accompanists were Muriel Mongin and Florence Schmidt.

Leading roles in the operetta were taken by Barbara Boyd, David Foxgrover, Cyril Vander Horst, Dale Van Dyke and Daniel Derks. Girls taking the party of "merrymakers" were Darlene Vils, Susan Dix, Joan DeBruin, Nancy Biseix, Sherrill Kimpell, Carol Wollangk, Karen Krumm and Elynn Verbeten.

Others were Karla Kuchelmeister, Lois Welhouse, Marlene Steffens, Kathleen Rossi, Joan Vandehey, Rita Kilgas, Karen Grebe, Shirley O'Brien, Naomi Tyson, Joanne Pahl, Lynn Techman and Carol Skibba.

Holiday Dance Theme Selected By KHS Pupils

Kaukauna — "Blue Christmas" was selected as the theme for the annual holiday dance which will wind up pre-Christmas activity for Kaukauna High school students Saturday night in the school gymnasium.

Dancing to a local orchestra will get underway at 8 and continue until 11 p.m. Tickets are $1.25 per couple if purchased in advance and will be $1.50 at the door.

In keeping with the theme, students under the direction of Bridget Brenzel, chairman of decorating, plan to have a large Christmas tree decorated in blue and white. The ceiling will be trimmed with stripes of white crepe paper, gathered in the center around a silver disc.

Suspended from this disc will be a 4-sided cardboard Christmas tree with decorative ornaments hung from its branches. A finishing touch will be the placing of blue spotlights about the gym.

Assisting with decorations are Richard Lemke, Sharon Spice, Joanne Kappell, Sandra Kern, Patricia Haen, Athlyn Andrews, Kenneth Kavanaugh and Lance Goetzman.

United Church Children Plan Yule Programs

Kaukauna — Sunday school children from Immanuel United Church of Christ will present a Christmas program at 2:30 p. m. Saturday in the church.

Youngsters from the beginners and primary departments will give recitations while the junior department will present a musical skit, "The Best Gift of All."

Other skits planned include, "His Star," and "We Caught Santa." Parents and friends of the youngsters are invited.

235-577 Lead Major League

Kaukauna — Al Schumann cracked a 235 singleton and 577 series to walk off with individual honors in the Men's Major Bowling league at S and B alleys.

Team honors went to Trude Jewelers with a 997 game and a 2,762 series. The honor team continued to set the pace with a record of 35 wins and 10 losses while Gertz' tavern remained in second with a 294-151 record.

Other high scores were posted by Bob Sachs, 570; Jerry Lamers, 571; Norb Jansen, 561; Ray Morgan, 556 and Bob Martzahl, 562.

Three Set Out to Trace Star; Not All Agreed on Journey

BY GEORGE W. CORNELL
Associated Press Religion Writer

The caravan stood in readiness. It had taken nearly three months to prepare for the 1,200-mile journey. Shouts of leather-shirted cavalry officers mingled with the bowl of animals as supplies were loaded.

Somewhere . . . somewhere in Judea . . . was the destination.

The chief camoleer rushed about, yelling instructions and gesturing violently, as sweating slaves hoisted rope crates and grain bags to the backs of kneeling freight beasts. Dust swirled in the bright Persian sunlight.

Blankets, tents, foodstuffs, water casks and other necessities, along with chests of rare treasures, were stowed on the wooden pack saddles, divided equally by weight on either side, and bound to the uprights.

Since it would be a rigorous trip, only about 400 pounds of cargo, two-thirds the usual maximum, was placed on each camel. A crowd of jostling townspeople looked on, women veiled in their chadors; dark, hirsute men with laughing eyes.

"A fool's expedition! Those greybeards chase the wind."

Behind a brick wall, inside the palace of the royal magian council, a circle of white-gowned men sat around a fire, staring silently into its leaping flames.

They were Melchior, pale, old, white-bearded; Gaspar, a tall, ruddy young priest, and black-skinned Balthasar, of medium age and stature, whose ancestors may have come to Persia in the days when its empire stretched to Ethiopia.

Not all their fellow magi condoned this quest to honor a hypothetical "Blessed One" of alien birth. Nor would they, as the ensuing years proved, accept its validity. It smacked of national disloyalty.

The caravan climbed the steep trails into the mountains on Persia's western rim, and descended into the lowlands beyond. Wild boars, cheetahs and other carnivores infested the area, and bulbuls sang from the box trees.

The military escort was supplied as a routine to such royal entourage, even though the fratricidal King Phraates IV, dominated by an Italian concubine he called "the goddess Musa," had no taste for the mission.

The squadron of helmeted archers, with their fine-limbed horses, led the column down into the plain of Appolloniatus, on past the proudly independent city of Seleucia beside the Tigris, and as far as the Euphrates bridge.

Continue Alone

For them to go farther might have appeared warlike. The magi and their retinue of servants likely continued from there alone. A long, hard road, of many months, lay ahead.

They tramped on. The saddles chafed their legs; the sun burned their skin and dust caked their eyes. The trip took six months to a year, other travel logs of the period indicate.

What kind of men were these who discerned a still small voice, and pursued it across a continent?

The annals of that time tell of their knowledge and insight.

Philo, then an Alexandrian philosopher, said the Magi "behold the books of nature with more acute perception than usual." A contemporary Roman scholar, Apuleius, calls them "divinely wise."

the magi "seek for God being conversant with His works." The ancient Greek geographer, Herodotus, said that in all the world's ignorance was one shining exception — the truth-loving magi.

Many other ancient scholars, Plutarch, Diogenes, Laertius, Pliny, all speak of the magian acuity. They were official tutors of princes, Persian and Parthian alike.

Slept in Tents

But none of this explains the impetus that took them hundreds of miles, in broiling heat of day and chill of night, across the wide Syrian desert to Haleb or Tudmor, and on along the dusty highway to Damascus.

They camped at night in their black goat-hair tents, for it would not be fitting for regal personages to stop in foreign hostels, with their dancers, boxers, knife-throwers and comedians balancing under derfied infants atop poles.

The brilliant star they had seen "in the east" or more specifically translated "at the rising" apparently did not guide them, for Judea lay to the west beside the Mediterranean — not to the east.

Part of their secret may have been in their "Zendavesta," the hoary, mystical record of which only one of 21 books survive. Or it may have been in the labyrinthine, dateless processes of the past linking their stored-up lore and monotheistic beliefs with Judaism, and its yearning for the king of kings.

Final Decision

Whatever the explanation, the magi's final decision was precipitated by a star, and as Ignatius described it in the first century, it "shone in heaven beyond all other stars . . . Its light was inexpressible . . . Men's ignorance was taken away."

It was in that instant, in a flare of intuition and conviction, that the magi had known heaven had touched earth. So they traveled on and on, south along the great trade route, from Damascus, along the eastern shore of Galilee,

Marines Play Santa Claus for Needy Navajos

El Toro, Calif. — (AP) — The marines are playing Santa Claus for needy Navajo Indians because they remember what great fighters the Navajo leathernecks were in World war II and Korea.

Marine transport planes flew 16 tons of food, clothing, medical supplies and Christmas gifts to Winslow, Ariz. They will be trucked to Ganado on the reservation.

The contributions were collected by 1,187 marines and their families, high school students and cub scouts of El Toro marine air station and the area surrounding this southern California base.

Brig. Gen. I. B. Salmon will present the gifts to the Indians at Ganado Friday.

This is the second year the El Toro marines have made Christmas happier for the Navajos.

"Why do we help the Navajos at Christmas? We are repaying them for the valiant and heroic assistance they gave the marines in World war II and Korea," said C. W. O. William B. Kohl, chairman of the drive.

Health Nurse Reports 1958 Clinic Totals

A total of 1,060 vaccinations were given in Outagamie county clinics this year, according to Mrs. Marion Freemore, county health nurse. Last year's total was 1,027.

Triple toxoid shots totalled 388, compared to 355 in 1957. Booster shots totalled 838, compared to 748 last year.

The county conducted nine clinics this year, one more than 1957. Mrs. Freemore said. She recommended that pre-school children be immunized as soon as possible. Too many parents wait until their children reach school age, although the early years are the dangerous ones, the nurse declared.

Mrs. Freemore's office is sending cards to parents whose children have not completed their toxoid series.

Mr. Watson's Statistics

In one of the best budget presentations heard by the governor-elect during the last two weeks of appropriations review at the state capitol, State Supt. George Watson spoke disparagingly of his own futile efforts to project accurately the birth rate of the state in relation to school attendance trends.

He thought he was optimistic enough, he remarked with a smile, but the people of Wisconsin each year during the last decade or more have recorded the birth of more babies than he had forecast.

The financial implications of Mr. Watson's school attendance statistics were sombre enough as they have been critical in their implications for the finance officers and the school board planners of virtually every community of the state since World War II. There were some gloomy dispatches from the state capitol resulting from his testimony, for it is clear that the treasury at Madison will be required to exact from the state taxpayer many more millions of dollars in state funds to maintain even the presently modest level of state participation in local school budgets.

Similarly, in most localities of the state,

Protecting Juveniles

The section of the Children's Code which protects juvenile law breakers from the pains of publicity has recently come under fire from several directions.

It was not surprising that the Wisconsin Associated Press Managing Editors association recently stated its opposition to the law, since those concerned with the presentation of news are first to be hampered by such a provision. The law, however, also is being criticized by many people working in the youth field. An example is the recent statement of the Youth committee of the Appleton Community Council urging that publicity be given to the escapades of repeat offenders. "We do not subscribe to the theory that release of such information would be harmful to the individual," the committee stated. "We feel that publicity should be used in a positive manner to fight delinquency . . . Youths who commit repeat offenses are not mere delinquents and should not be afforded all the special considerations which delinquents have come to expect."

When a juvenile causes trouble for the police and the district attorney, most citizens leave that problem to the officials and forget all about it. Even when a juvenile destroys the property of another citizen people are inclined to go along with the provision which protects the juvenile from publicity on the ground that, after all, it's just a matter for the public officials to handle.

However, when juveniles transgress on broad public rights as they have done in the series of bomb threats to schools across the state of Wisconsin, a great many people are concerned. In the Fox Cities alone thousands of people have been discommoded by the persons who placed calls stating falsely that bombs had been placed in schools. It is small wonder that people who were annoyed by this foolish business are now complaining that the perpetrators of the offense, presumably youngsters, will probably get a mild slap on the wrist and be sent home to their parents without further punishment. Many who feel that the offense was a rather serious matter no longer seem content to have such cases left to juvenile authorities. They will want to know who the perpetrators were and furthermore the rapid rise in the birth rate portends inevitable boosts in local tax rates to support the schools for an indefinite period of years ahead.

But we sometimes wonder if we are seeing the whole story here. While the tax impact of these statistics is sobering enough, there is a cheerful side, too. Sometimes the politician, indulging in oratorical flourishes, will tell us that children are the state's most important product. We smile tolerantly at his rhetorical emptiness.

Yet it is true. These birth rates are guarantees of the future health, wealth and vigor of the state as a community. We need only contemplate the implications of a reverse trend. Suppose that the birth rate was in decline. It would be a dreary symptom, indeed, for the future of the commonwealth.

These children who are crowding our schools and pressing our purses now are the creators and the producers and the leaders — not to mention the taxpayers — of the next decade and the one to follow. Those communities that are troubled most deeply about present-day school budgets are those which have the surest proofs of a healthy tomorrow.

they want to be assured that they received the proper punishment.

Long before this particular provision of the Children's Code was written into law the Post-Crescent followed the policy of omitting the names of youthful offenders when it appeared that the offense was the result of mistaken judgment and there was little to be accomplished by naming the perpetrator in the public prints. On the other hand, we felt we had the right to withdraw this protection when there was little excuse for the offense or when the same juvenile appeared as a second or third offender. The Children's Code when it was amended recently took the discretion out of the hands of newspapers and spread the mantle of secrecy over all juveniles, first, second or third offenders up to the age of 16 regardless of the severity of the offense. This change in the law, it appears now, has had a very unfavorable effect. Some juveniles and the most likely ones to be involved in such matters are well aware of the protection they have and thus are ready to lead their companions into dangerous stunts with the advice that "the law can't do anything to you."

We are not sure that merely repealing this section of the law would settle the questions involved here. It may be that juveniles should have some protection of this nature, but we are by no means certain that the protection should be so extensive or as inclusive as it is today. We think the best test would be to require those advocating such protection to justify it by citing experiences. For example if it is a good thing to protect a juvenile's name there must be some indication in the record somewhere that some juvenile of an earlier day was injured by having his transgressions published.

We are quite sure most of the people in Wisconsin today are just a little tired of being imposed upon by juveniles who are protected from publicity by the provision of the Children's Code. If this sentiment continues to grow there will be a strong demand for changes. If that is so it would be the part of wisdom for those who believe in this provision to come forward and justify it or to propose some reasonable modification of the present law.

10 Best Wisconsin Stories of 1958

About this time every year the Associated Press conducts its "Best-Stories-of-the-Year" polls among its member newspapers. Every state bureau lists the more important developments and asks the members to choose the top 10.

There are no standards as to why the stories selected are the most "important." It's just a question of news judgment, which can be based on a story's lasting effect, plain sensationalism or human interest.

The AP compiles the results, on the basis of one vote for each newspaper regardless of size, and then transmits a readable story on the findings.

People's Forum

The Gentleman Asks Opportunity For Rebuttal and Then Withdraws

Editor, Post-Crescent:

By way of introduction, I wish to thank you for giving me this opportunity to defend my honor which has become a trifle tarnished by a tirade recently made against me. Like King Lear, I feel "I am a man more sinned against than sinning."

In my recent letter printed in the People's Forum, I pleaded for a more rational and less emotional approach to the current canine controversy. The result? A swift and scathing reply from a woman who insists upon generating more heat than light on the present pooch problem. In reading this rather caustic criticism of my character, I was reminded of these words of wisdom of the English writer, Oscar Wilde: "Women are picturesque protests against the mere existence of common sense."

As I clearly stated in my last letter, I have no axe to grind or bone to pick with humane societies as such. In fact, the more the merrier. However, I definitely do take to task the sob sister elements of these organizations who are more humane than humanitarian. These people persist in professing a philosophy which is concerned more with man's inhumaneness to animals than with "man's inhumanity to man."

By refusing to put first things first, these misguided persons with their misapplied zeal do more harm than good for the cause which they so earnestly espouse. The reaction of any thinking person to their saccharine sentimentality is one of deepest disgust.

It seems to me that as this mongrel melodrama unfolds on this page of the Post-Crescent, I am stealing from Mr. Weber his role as villain. From the charges that have been levelled against him, I gather that this dogcatcher isn't fit to breathe the same air with any decent dog. However, I am inclined to sympathize with the poor man. I guess, I'm just a staunch supporter of that good old American tradition of favoring the underdog. And Mr. Weber is definitely the underdog in certain canine circles. But move over, Rover, I'm going to keep you company in the doghouse!

Lest I be accused of being a heartless dog-hater, I repeat in triplicate form this time: "I love dogs! I love dogs! I love dogs!" But I'll be doggone if I'll ever go along with that crazy mixed-up concept: "A dog is a dog just like a human." If I should ever be converted to this perverted proposition (which God forbid!), then I'll nominate Elvis Presley for president and propose that our national anthem be changed to the song "You Ain't Nothing But A Hound Dog!"

Since I have had my rebuttal in this dog debate, I will not bother the People's Forum with any more letters. I am sure, this space can be used for a discussion of more important and profound matters. Then too, it appears that some persons are impervious to logic and impentable to reason. From reading their letters, one is reminded of Marc Antony's words to the Roman populace: "O judgment, thou art flled to brutish beasts, and men have lost their reason!"

In conclusion, I address myself to the esteemed members of the city Council. Gentlemen, please do not permit yourselves to be pressurized into reversing your decision by a small minority whose bark is worse than their bite.

Americans Saving a Very Pretty Penny

From The Anderson, S. C., Independent

Americans continue to put away a good bit for rainy days, despite the trend to installment buying and credit living.

They cashed $95 million in October, bringing savings in the $19 mutual savings banks in the country to $34 billion. That is about $200 for every man, woman and child in the population.

Added to savings in other institutions and forms, that is a pretty penny.

79 YEARS AGO

Quoted from the Appleton Crescent for the week of Dec. 20, 1879.

"Restore the Death Penalty" is the cry of the feeble-minded press of this state. Why?

Because an imbecile fellow killed a child, and a besotted Norwegian killed a man in Rock county. And because whisky impelled a few other human beings in different parts of the state to commit the crime of murder during the present year.

Why not "go the whole figure?" Restore imprisonment for debt, brand with a hot iron for theft, whip for profanity and put in public stocks the people who are profane. Bring death by hanging for all other crimes and mis-demeanors. Why not?

The one is quite as sensible as the other, and would be in full keeping with the blood-thirsty spirit that would match murder with murder.

State GOP Begins to Emulate Prodigal Son

BY JOHN WYNGAARD

Madison — The announcement by GOP Chairman Claude J. Jasper that members of the state committee of the party this week agreed the Republicans must uphold a "staunch conservative" line sounded like a confession of error.

But it was also one of the most important current developments in state political affairs.

It is doubtless the first hint that the party in its evaluation of the smashing defeat of last month is preparing to renounce "modern Republicanism" and other hyphenations, for a return to its traditional philosophy and base.

There is a danger that too much will be read into the Jasper declaration. It must be understood that it was not a calculated announcement. It was drawn out of the party organization spokesman at a press conference, after he had at first waved away interrogations about the drift of party ideology. Then, almost as an afterthought, he remarked that the consensus of the party committee in its closed session postmortem was that the Republicans must acknowledge the disgruntlement of many of the conservative voters.

MRS. MURRAY ECHO

Coming as it did so soon after her celebrated blast, the Jasper pronouncement must have been glad news for Mrs. Ruth Murray, the Oshkosh lady who had so dramatically quit the party only a few days before.

Mrs. Murray, vice chairman of the state committee and a woman with a considerable gift for platform speaking, announced her departure from active political life with a bitter indictment of the liberals and others she claims have taken over the Republican party and have left the voters of conservative conviction no vehicle for action or expression.

Even allowing for Mrs. Murray's flair for the dramatic, her doleful complaint found an echo in many Republican hearts in this state.

This corner probably sees a fairly representative slice of the political life of this state, of Republican and Democratic persuasions.

It requires no talent for research to discover that there are droves of citizens heart-sick at the aimlessness of the GOP in these times,

Soviet Air Progress May be Overrated

Experts Think Over-All U. S.
Position Has Been Improved

BY ELTON C. FAY
Washington — A new estimate by American authorities of Russia's missile-bomber progress gives the reds a lower rating than a half year ago.

An assessment made last spring, which indicated substantial leads by the Soviets in several fields of weapons, has been re-evaluated, responsible sources said Thursday.

Now the relative, over-all position of the United States in ballistic missiles appears to have improved. In manned bombers this country retains what the analysts consider a clear superiority.

Soviet Premier Khrushchev's recent claim of an intercontinental ballistic missile capable of 8,700 mile range does not seem to have influenced this re-evaluation; nor are the analysts ready to accept completely reports that Russia is flying a nuclear powered bomber.

The United States may not have a high-performance nuclear bomber flying for another five to eight years.

Talks of Missile
In the case of the ICBM, U.S. authorities make these points:

Khrushchev speaking to Sen. Hubert Humphrey (D-Minn) in Moscow, did not appear to have claimed that Russia had fired a missile 8,700 miles but merely said

Russia had a missile capable of such range.

This did not seem to mean the missile already is militarily operational.

The second generation American ICBM, the Titan, is expected by its designers to be able to reach out as far as the reported Russian weapon. The first U. S. ICBM, the Atlas—which unlike the Titan has been test fired—has soared 6,325 miles.

The true test of a ballistic missile is more of accuracy than range, American military men say.

Relative Positions
Maj. Gen. Bernard A. Schriever, chief of the air force's ballistic missile division, gave a summary of relative American and Russian positions in ballistic missiles last month before the Khrushchev-Humphrey meeting.

Schriever said:

At the moment, the Soviet Union appears to have an advantage in ballistic missiles of under 1,000-mile range. The situation was less clear on 1,500 mile intermediate range ballistic missiles. Schriever said the American Thor and Jupiter IRBMs have been quite successful in recent tests.

As for the ICBM, he said, "we have no reason to believe that the Russians are appreciably ahead of us" in development. He added "it is possible that both countries will achieve initial operational capability of ICBMs at about the same time."

In long range strategic bombers Pentagon officials insist that the United States holds superiority even though the number of bombers might total more on the Soviet side.

Accuracy Vital
What counts, they say, is the ability of bombers to get to target and the whole complex weapons system of target selection, strike technique and refueling that goes with the bombers.

There has been a recent flurry of reports about a new Soviet bomber. Sec. of the Air Force James H. Douglas last week mentioned a new Russian bomber of advanced type.

Douglas said "Such information as we have, does not identify this aircraft as nuclear-powered nor having the performance characteristics equal to our B58."

The Convair 58 is a medium jet bomber reported able to fly 1,400 m.p.h. in runs over a target or in maneuver. It is just being delivered to the air force and is not in the operating fleet.

Bomber Mystery
The Soviet bomber mentioned by Douglas is a mystery to western observers. It could have been this aircraft which gave rise to published reports that Russia was flying an atomic powered plane. President Eisenhower in a news conference said we have no evidence of this.

Reports from outside Washington do not rule out the possibility that some form of nuclear power may be in the new test Russian bomber. One suggestion is that the Russians may be carrying a nuclear reactor into the air, as the United States did a few years ago to test radiation development. He added "it is possible that both countries have a reactor aboard an airplane. However, these outside reports describe the mysterious Russian plane as of unusual shape and obviously a new design. If the Russians merely wanted to test radiation they would not be expected to design an entirely new air frame for that purpose.

These reports indicated the Soviet plane might use regular jet engines, although possibly of very high power.

Lawrence Asks:
Do School Hour Yule Programs Violate Law?

Constitution Has Only 1 Sentence On Controversy

BY DAVID LAWRENCE
Washington—Are the public-school authorities throughout the United States violating the "law of the land" by permitting Christmas celebrations during school hours?

Nine of the highest national organizations of the Jewish church have just issued a statement declaring that observance of religious festivals of any kind in the public schools violates "the traditional American principle of separation of church and state."

But what is the "law of the land," and does the constitution really forbid all religious teaching in the public schools?

The Supreme Court took it upon itself in 1948 to say that religious instruction during school hours, with each religion being given equal opportunity to hold its own services in separate sections of the same school building, is a violation of the constitution.

Then the high court reversed itself in part in 1952 and said it is constitutional to release the children to go to religious classes during school hours provided these are carried on in other than public-school buildings. Under this formula those children who do not want any religious instruction are required to remain in the classrooms. This has been severely criticized as unequal, but it is nevertheless the latest court ruling on the subject.

In New York city, moreover, attempts have been made to introduce into the public schools a joint celebration of Christmas and the Jewish festival of lights, known as chanukah, as well as a combined observance of Easter and passover. But the statement just issued by the Jewish National organizations deplores any such co-operative services as also a violation of "the conscience of many religious persons, Jews and Christians alike." The statement recommends that students be permitted to refrain from any participation in religious holiday observances if they so desire.

Controversial Topic
This brings into the news a topic that has many other controversial aspects as well. The constitution has only one sentence on the subject. It says: "Congress shall make no law respecting an establishment of religion, or prohibiting the free exercise thereof."

When the court forbade the use of public-school buildings during school hours to permit religious instruction by teachers of different faiths to their own groups, was this a prohibition of the free exercise of religion?

The Rev. Virgil C. Blum, professor of political science at Marquette university, is the author of a book, just out, entitled "Freedom of Choice in Education." He has long advocated a certificate and tax-credit plan whereby parents would be given some form of subsidy out of local taxes to enable them to send their children to whatever schools they wish, so as to get whatever religious instruction they prefer. He declares in his book that "the rights of parents who believe in the Christian or Jewish religion and think that it should be taught to their children in school are as fundamental as any other constitutional rights," he adds:

"Parents who demand for their children an education from which all mention of God has been dehydrated are within their rights under the constitution. But, when government demands that all children conform to this established secular religion of the public schools as a condition for sharing in educational benefits, the children's religious liberty is seriously abridged. This alternative of the dilemma is totally unacceptable to parents of every religious belief who desire a God-centered education for their children."

'Supreme School Board'
The topic has a new significance nowadays, since the supreme court has become the "supreme school board" of the nation and decides cases on sociological and psychological factors as they relate to the education of the child in the public schools. But if the people are to make sure that the problem will be handled as they wish, they will have to seek a constitutional amendment. This would insure them, for example, refunds in taxes or tax credits so they could send their children to private schools that teach religion or to public schools where "released time" during school hours would be granted to children of particular faiths, who would be taught in public-school buildings by their own religious instructors.

It will be noted that the New York city board of education, in its 6-point program to combat crime in the schools, says that, in the community's efforts to solve the problem of juvenile delinquency, "there is no substitute for the principles of religion and morality."

Land Acquired for Office Building; Sale May be Challenged
Madison — (U) — The state building commission has completed its purchase of a controversial state office building site in La Crosse, Assistant Atty. Gen. Warren Resh said Thursday.

Resh, who represented the John Perry behind bars Thursday to face charges of smuggling escape material to prisoners.

Sheriff Don Genung said the 20-year-old man returned to the jail Tuesday with cigarettes and a box of candy for his cellmates. Perry was released Monday after being held in an embezzlement case. A jailer opened the candy box in addition to the sweets, it contained five hacksaw blades.

state building commission in negotiating the purchase, said the deal was closed with payment of $50,000 to the Roman Catholic Diocese of La Crosse.

The deal was completed in the face of attempts by Allen Roberts, a Sparta businessman, to block the purchase.

At Sparta, Roberts said he had directed James Rice, his attorney, to move immediately to void the sale. He said Rice planned to file a complaint or other proceedings aimed at voiding the sale with Gov. Vernon Thomson.

Thomson is chairman of the building commission.

London—(U)—The school play required 7-year-old Teddy Kellegher to go to bed on stage and pretend to be fast asleep. A host of little angels tiptoed in to the strains of a cradle song and quietly placed presents beside the bed. Teddy was to wake up and look with amazement at the gifts. The music stopped, but Teddy never stirred. He really was asleep. Finally a red-faced teacher hurried across the stage to give the young star a determined shake. Teddy sat up. He rubbed his eyes. And then he did what every little boy does on Christmas morning. Ignoring the script, jubilantly started opening the parcels. The audience roared. Teddy's stage aunt hurried on to say the final lines just in time to stop him from eating some of the candy. Daddy took the smiling, sleepy little boy home to bed... with another Christmas morning still ahead.

Sand Mill Easy to Make; Runs Merrily All Day Long

BY CAPPY DICK

A sand mill is an easy project for boys and girls to make. Best part about it is it works!

Jimmy Strong, our boy artist, has made the adjoining sketch to show you how to proceed.

As you can see in Figure 3, you put sand into a tin can on top of the mill. The sand falls through a small hole in the bottom of the can and through another hole in top of the mill.

As it falls, it strikes the cupped arms of a mill wheel made of pieces of tin or sheet brass nailed to an ordinary thread spool. The weight of the sand causes the wheel to turn. You can keep the mill wheel going all day just by removing the sand from the bottom of the mill box and putting it back into the supply can on top. Use an old spoon for a shovel.

The hole in the bottom of the can, through which the sand falls, should be about as big around as a pencil (Figure 2) and the hole in the top of the mill box should be the same size.

The axle on which the mill wheel turns is simply a thin stick of wood (Figure 1) which will fit tightly into the hole of the spool. It is then rested in two holes in the sides of the mill box — large enough so the axle turns freely.

High Court Seat Up In Coming Election

Three Candidates Announced, Several More Probably Will Run

BY JOHN WYNGAARD
Post-Crescent Staff Writer

Madison — A contest for a seat on the state supreme court is the next important item on the state election calendar.

Wisconsin next April will decide whether Justice E. Harold Hallows, an appointed member of the state's highest appellate court, should have a 10-year term. He was chosen nearly a year ago by Gov. Vernon W. Thomson for a vacancy caused by the retirement of Roland Steinle to make an unsuccessful campaign for the United States senate. Hallows was a successful practitioner in a large Milwaukee law firm.

Already there is an assurance of a primary election preceding the general election. The law provides for a primary when two or more candidates run. Three already have announced and there are likely to be two or three others making known their candidacy soon.

In Running

Already in the running are William Clark, a Milwaukee lawyer best known for his activities during the last decade as an officer of the Democratic party organization, and John Krueger, a member of the Milwaukee board of education.

Regarded as likely to run are Bruno Bitker, Milwaukee, widely known for his work in civil rights and related fields and a veteran Democratic party leader, and Willis Donley, Menomonie, once a member of the state legislature and a decade ago pardon counsel to the late Gov. Walter S. Goodland.

Stewart Honeck, the retiring Republican attorney general who was a candidate for appointment to the court when Thomson filled the vacancy there last year, has been asking the advice of his friends about running for a seat in the spring, but has not yet made a decision.

The prospect for an unusually numerous list of candidates arises out of the upset election to the court a year ago of William H. Dieterich, Hartford, who defeated another appointed incumbent, Emmert L. Wingert, Madison. Dieterich will take his oath of office here Jan. 5, to replace Wingert who will return to his Madison law office.

Incumbent Favored

In the history of the state judiciary, the incumbent running for a new term has usually been favored.

Dieterich apparently raised some doubts about the validity of the sitting judge rule when he ran several times and made his name so familiar to the electorate that he retired a relatively less known incumbent who had the general although passive support of the bench and bar and other usually influential elements.

Students of Wisconsin electoral behavior are more than usually interested in the court elections because of new retirement laws which will make such elections more frequent.

Although the members of the court are chosen for long terms, their tenure will be shortened in most instances by the compulsory retirement at 70 years law. There will be an election in each of the years coming up as present members of the court retire.

Mayor Asks Changes in Plan Contract

Says Communities Should Not be Allowed to Quit

Changes in the Fox Valley Regional planning commission's contract with an outside planner, designed to make the contract more binding on individual commission members, were proposed by Neenah Mayor Chester Bell Thursday night.

At its last meeting the commission approved hiring Metropolitan Planners, Inc., Indianapolis, to draw up a regional master plan for the Fox Cities. The proposed contract would cover a 3-year period.

Bell said each member community, once committed, should not be allowed to withdraw. He asked that each municipality be required to execute a separate contract with the planner and be liable for damages if it defaults.

Details Later

Commission Chairman C. W. Wood, Kimberly, said details of such an agreement could be worked out with Metropolitan President Kenneth Schellie who will be invited to come to the Fox Cities next month for orientation talks.

Menasha Mayor R. G. DuCharme complained about lack of communication between the commission's executive committee and the membership.

Wood advised members to make arrangements with the executive committee members for detailed reports on the group's actions. He noted that copies of the minutes are sent to all members.

See Higher Demand For Quality Homes

Stable Prices, Rising Volume of Transfers of Existing Residences Expected in First Half of 1959

Americans are stepping up their drive for better quality housing with the result that the real estate market in the first half of 1959 generally will be characterized by stable home prices and a rising volume of transfers of good quality existing residences.

This forecast is made in the semi-annual market study for the fall of 1958 by the National Association of Real Estate Boards.

"The continuing process of upgrading, the sustained rate of mobility, and higher personal income provide the substance of an active real estate market," the survey report said. "In most areas an increase in demand compared to 1958 is anticipated, but improvement in the supply of offerings, as upgrading is resumed, will hold back price advances."

Approximately 25 per cent of the standing stock of housing in standard metropolitan areas is made up of homes built in 1950 or later, the survey notes, and according to most realtors the volume of sales of this type of housing is high at prices the same or above those of a year ago—particularly in the $12,000-$20,000 category.

For homes in the $12,000-$20,000 range, 45 per cent described them as higher, and 39 per cent said they were unchanged. With respect to the under $12,000 group, 44 per cent of the respondents said prices were higher, 40 per cent reported them unchanged, and 16 per cent found them lower.

Between 1940 and 1950 the volume of sales of homes of this age in the $12,000 - $20,000 range was greater than a year ago in 47 per cent of the market areas, about the same in 28 per cent, and lower in 25 per cent. For homes priced under $12,000, a rate of sales similar to last year was quoted for 36 per cent of the communities, and a higher level for 27 per cent. Sales of homes of $20,000 or more were higher in 31 per cent of the nation, and the same in 31 per cent, and lower in 38 per cent.

The report notes that the upward trend of both prices and sales for these relatively new existing homes was most pronounced in satellite cities within major metropolitan areas, and counties adjoining standard metropolitan areas.

For homes constructed during the forties, and priced under $12,000, 36 per cent of the reports indicated unchanged values, while 35 per cent said they had declined. With respect to the $12,000 - $20,000 group, 39 per cent said they were the same, while 32 per cent said they were lower. For residences of $20,000 or more, stable values were said

Here's the Answer

BY ANDREW C. LANG

QUESTION: I want to put down vinyl planks on our living room floor. The planks I mean have woodgrain finishes and come in long strips 36 inches long. Can they be installed directly on our present floor, which is made of regular wooden boards?

ANSWER: The type of vinyl planks you mean can be installed directly over a wooden floor provided the boards are not more than 3 inches in width and the floor generally is in good condition. Should either of these conditions not prevail, then it is advisable to put down plywood or hardboard underlayment before the vinyl planks.

QUESTION: We are considering investing in a real estate syndicate which owns several large buildings. While to prevail in 38 per cent of the survey, and higher ones in 24 per cent.

Sales of homes of this age priced below $12,000 are equal to those of a year ago in 36 per cent of the places, lower in 31 per cent, and higher in 33 per cent. Transactions involving homes in the $12,000-$20,000 range were said to be the same in 41 per cent of the survey areas, higher in 28 per cent, and lower in 31 per cent. For the $20,000 and over group, transfers were reported to be at a rate similar to a year ago in 36 per cent of the places, and higher in 18 per cent.

The survey found that homes built during the thirties are selling at prices prevalent a year ago in more than 50 per cent of the south and middle west. For 34 per cent of the cities of the middle west, and for 40 per cent of the south, sales prices were quoted as the same. Thirty-one per cent of the western communities reported prices above those of a year ago.

The national averages for homes in this age group indicate higher prices in 16 per cent of the country, unchanged prices in 38 per cent, and lower prices in 46 per cent.

The volume of transfers of properties built during the thirties continued at a level similar to that of a year ago in 40 per cent of the survey, advanced in 21 per cent, and declined in 39 per cent. The volume of sales in western market areas was higher than in the rest of the nation.

Before 1930

With respect to residences built prior to 1930, the survey report says, prices and transfer levels of homes in areas of cities where residential repair and renovation are customary have held firm, while values have declined in neglected neighborhoods.

Specifically, prices for homes in this age group in well-maintained neighborhoods are higher than a year ago in 25 per cent of the areas, the same in 41 per cent, and lower in 34 per cent. For such residences in neglected neighborhoods, prices are the same in 21 per cent of the country, and lower in 73 per cent.

properly, which prevents the chance of uneven absorption of the decorative topcoat. Most latex paints are good sealers. So is shellac and most enamel undercoaters and varnish-based and alkyl-based primer-sealers. After the primer has thoroughly dried, you can use any desired finished coat. If the hardboard is being used outdoors, it should be the tempered type. The sealing coat is regular house paint primer, followed by a coat of house paint. If you want a high gloss, or good color retention, exterior trim paints are best, although other exterior paints also may be used. When both sides of the hardboard will be exposed to the elements, the backs and edges also should be sealed.

QUESTION: Photography is my hobby. Recently, when in a hurry, I made the mistake of using the kitchen sink to do some developing. The solution apparently ate away a part of the sink enamel. Can this be fixed?

ANSWER: It is doubtful whether you can ever do a good patching job on the damaged area. However, you might try one of the porcelain glaze products now on the market. It should at least partially disguise the marred section of the sink.

Cary Grant Teams With Sophia Loren In 'Houseboat'

Sophia Loren plays her first comedy role and Cary Grant portrays a family man in "Houseboat," the movie which is coming to the Rio theater Christmas eve.
It's a light-hearted story about a lawyer's dilemma when he finds himself with three children on his hands. His estranged wife has died, and he must make a home for his youngsters, who don't take to the idea.
The plot takes on comedy overtones when he mistakes the glamorous runaway daughter of a visiting symphony conductor for a housekeeper whom he hires to take care of the children. Miss Loren as the feminine lead, sings the popular, "Bing! Bang! Bing!" and a romantic ballad as well as dances during the movie.

Goldwyn Films Folk Opera, Porgy and Bess

Veteran Producer Puts $7 Million in His Biggest Gamble

Hollywood — Samuel Goldwyn says he is taking the biggest gamble of his 46-year career as a film producer — and won't profit a penny if he wins.
He declared he has dropped $7 million of his own money into the making of "Porgy and Bess."

Except for shares which go to his wife and son, the entire profits will be given to his Goldwyn Foundation for Charitable Works.

"That is, if there are any profits," he added. "I'm not even sure of that. I have done what nobody else has tried before—put a real American opera on the screen. I don't know if the public will go for an opera. Nobody knows. But I'll tell you one thing, he said, 'I will not disguise what I think it is an opera. I don't think it does any good to lie to the public about what a thing is. If they don't like it, they won't come, no matter what you call it.'"

The rights alone cost a minimum of $650,000, with more to be paid as a royalty. It took months of negotiations to nail down the contract. Oliver Smith worked seven months to design the sets, and Irene Sharaff the same time doing the costumes. An orchestra and 80-voice chorus worked for four months on the pre-recordings. Most of the songs are dubbed, so that means, practically a duplicate cast. "The filming required four

Hopes for Success But Not Long Run

Hollywood — Elmer Zimbalist, Jr., is a TV star in a dilemma: He doesn't want a flop, but he doesn't want a hit, either.
Zimbalist is the suave private eye who matches wits with Hollywood's underworld on "77 Sunset Strip" for ABC on Friday nights. The son of the famed musician is also making a name for himself in theatrical films; he scored as Jean Simmons' sympathetic friend in "Home Before Dark."

Pantomime Opens In London Coliseum

London — A Christmas show billed as the most gorgeous, most glittering and most costly in British history will be staged here tonight by Broadway's Richard Rodgers and Oscar Hammerstein II.
The spectacular is "Cinderella," which started as an American TV production last March. It has been expanded into a 3-hour stage show so tremendous that all of the gigantic stage of the London Coliseum will be utilized for the first time in 27 years.
The show will be a pantomime—which to the British is not a silent show, but a Christmas spectacle with a fairyland motif. It probably will run for three or four months, then be put away until next year when Christmas season.

Initial Presentation

First Coronet Ball Milestone In History of Butte Des Morts

Butte des Morts Golf club will mark a milestone in its history Dec. 27 when daughters of club members will be introduced in the first formal presentation ceremonies held by the club.

The name Coronet ball has been chosen for the presentation, which will be staged annually by BDM. The club was founded in 1924.

With this step, the club joins its sister clubs in the Appleton area — North Shore Golf club and Riverview Country club — in staging an event specifically designed to introduce daughters of members to club membership.

Five To Be Introduced

Presentation parties are not new in Fox Cities area history. During the past summer, North Shore held its 20th annual Assembly ball, while Riverview staged its fifth annual Candlelight ball.

Five young women will participate in BDM's initial Coronet ball. All are June graduates of Appleton High school.

Presentees are Miss Judith Ann Baldwin, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Karl P. Baldwin, 707 S. State street; Miss Patricia Eustice, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Fred T. Eustice, 1640 Palisades drive; Miss Judith Claire Goehler, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. John H. Goehler, 620 W. Glendale avenue; Miss JoAnn Therese Rankin, daughter of Dr. and Mrs. F. J. Rankin, 507 W. Parkway boulevard; and Miss Patricia Mary Sherry, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Otto A. Sherry, 1013 E. Glendale avenue.

Gold and White Theme

The theme of the Coronet ball will be carried out in gold and white decorations. Highlighting motif will be a huge golden crown suspended from the ceiling in front of the fireplace in the club's main dining room. During the presentation, the young women will stand under the crown as they receive small jeweled coronets.

The gala evening will open with a 6 p. m. cocktail party for the young women and their escorts at the Rankin home. Parents of the presentees and committee members and their husbands will be entertained at cocktails by the Baldwins at their residence.

Don 'Debutante White'

Dinner will be served from 7 to 8:30 p. m. at the club, with the young women, their escorts and special guests to dine in a separate room. At 9:30 p. m., the presentees dressed in "debutante white" will be escorted by their fathers into the main dining room.

As each couple approaches the coronet, the father will introduce his daughter to Mr. Baldwin, club president. He, in turn, will present the young woman to the club membership and place a jeweled coronet on her head. Fathers and daughters then will form a line in front of the fireplace.

After the presentation, club members will be ushered into the ballroom by husbands of ball committee members. The assembly then will await the young women, who with their fathers, will promenade into the ballroom.

Friends to Join Presentees

The young women will have the first dance with their fathers, the second with their escorts and the third with club officials. Joining them at the dance will be young couples, friends of the presentees.

Arrangements for the ball are being handled by Mrs. Francis H. Jenkins and Mrs. Raymond N. LeVee, co-chairmen. Assisting them are the Mmes. William H. Pifer, Clarence H. Schultz, Frank J. Pechman, John G. Russo and F. S. Marshall. All are from Appleton except the Mmes. Pechman and Russo, who reside in Kaukauna.

Return to College

The young women who will be introduced at the ball will return to freshman studies after the holidays. Miss Baldwin is attending Stanford university, Stanford, Calif.; Miss Eustice is a student at Alverno college, Milwaukee; and Miss Goehler is matriculating at Drake university, Des Moines, Iowa.

Miss Rankin is studying at Marquette university, Milwaukee, while Miss Sherry will resume classwork at the University of Wisconsin.

Agrees Call Must Await Invitation

BY EMILY POST

Dear Mrs. Post: Several weeks ago I telephoned a friend of ours and asked if she was going to be home on Sunday as we were thinking of driving over to see them. She said she was very sorry but they had another engagement and would not be home. She did not set another time for us to come. My husband wants to go out and visit them this week, but I refuse to go as I think it is now up to her to call and ask us out to visit them. My husband thinks I stand too much on ceremony. What is your opinion?

Answer: I think you are right and that the next move is up to them. Had she really wanted to see you, she would have either mentioned another time when you were talking with her, or she would have called you since to make a date.

Pre-wedding Party

Dear Mrs. Post: My son is to be married in several weeks and it will be a small wedding. I would like to know if it would be proper for me to give a pre-wedding party at my house about a week before the wedding for his many friends who will not be invited to the reception. Will you please tell me how the invitations should be worded and also what kind of a party would be best to give?

Answer: It would be entirely proper to give a party for your son and his fiancée at any time. It could be a small dinner or just a supper, or whatever you can best give in your house. The invitations would read "Small Dinner" (or "Supper") for Mary and John, and the time and day.

Proper Gesture

Dear Mrs. Post: Would it seem forward of me to send a birthday greeting to a young man I met last summer and who took me out while I visited a cousin, but from whom I haven't heard since? I know it will be his birthday soon, but I don't want to have him think I'm running after him.

Answer: Sending a birthday card is certainly a very proper gesture if its message is impersonal.

Holiday Party Giving Is an Art; Plan Carefully

Enjoying your own holiday party is an art just as much as seeing that your guests have a good time.

So make your arrangements early enough so that you'll have plenty of time to plan the menu, the decorations, even your table setting.

Depend upon made-ahead casserole dishes and the like with buffet service so that most of the preparation work can be done beforehand.

Plan to use all the work-savers you can, especially if you're hosting with little or no help.

For instance, set boxes of paper napkins on the table. Disposable napkins solve a lot of clean-up problems for you. N. Lawe street, and Janice D. held. Husbands will be guests.

The club held a special interest meeting on Christmas decorations recently at the home of Mrs. Cliff Kortz. Available this season is a S. Quasius, 2071 E. Franklin street, Neenah.

Merizon Family Members Help at Milwaukee Ball

Mrs. Nancy Merizon Pabst, of Cedarburg, and William Merizon, Appleton, will participate in the festivities of the Milwaukee Service club Charity ball. They are the daughter and son of Mr. and Mrs. Isaac Merizon, 1944 Palisades drive.

Mrs. Pabst, president of the Service club, is automatically chairman of the Charity ball, which will be held Dec. 29 at the Milwaukee auditorium. Her brother will serve as one of the "posts" at the ball, assisting the young debutantes as they are presented.

William also will be one of the hosts at the Bachelor ball, a tea dance to be held in the early evening Dec. 25 at the Milwaukee Country club. The Bachelor ball gives the gentlemen an opportunity to repay social obligations.

Let Youngsters 'Paint' Wreaths on Mirrors, Windows

Kids want to decorate the house for the holidays? Why not let them "paint" wreaths and Santa Claus' on your mirrors and windows with the popular detergent and water fluff.

The suds can be wiped off quickly with a dampened paper towel, leaving glass surfaces shining.

Tell Troth of Patricia Wolfe

The betrothal of Miss Patricia Wolfe and Louis Bernhardt has been announced by Miss Wolfe's parents, Mr. and Mrs. Leonard Wolfe, Whitefish Bay.

Her fiancé is the son of Mrs. Ted Bernhardt, Whitefish Bay, and the late Mr. Bernhardt.

Miss Wolfe attended Lawrence college and the Layton School of Art. Bernhardt is a student at Oberlin college, Oberlin, Ohio.

Short Cuts Ease Yule Housework

Naturally, you'll want your home sparkling clean and shining for the holidays. While there's no single way to take the work out of housework, your tasks can be lightened by employing a few time-saving tricks.

Mirrors, glass table tops and windows can be cleaned and polished to a sparkling brilliance by adding a little starch to the washing water and then wiping dry with a paper towel. No rinse water is necessary.

You can give your floors added luster by mixing in a little liquid floor polish with the washing water and moving the scrub brush or sponge mop with the grain of the wood. Use cold water for washing floors.

Incidentally, you can save considerable wear on knees and skirts when scrubbing floors by cutting away one side and the top of a grocery carton and kneeling in the carton.

Glasses will gleam if you add a few drops of lemon juice to the rinsing water.

Porcelain can be cleaned by using salt on a flannel cloth.

To whisk dirt out of hard-to-reach corners or carved furniture, twist a piece of tissue around an orange stick or toothpick.

If your candles are loose in their holders, melt some paraffin and pour it into the sockets. Place candles in sockets while paraffin still is hot.

To Understand Women, Indulge Their Craziness Says Bardot's Ex-Hubby

London —/— To get along with women, you have to understand that they're a little crazy.

That's the advice of Roger Vadim, ex-husband of Brigitte Bardot and now wed to Annette Stroyberg, a Danish model.

Vadim, a lean, 30-year-old screen director, talked over lunch in a London restaurant.

"If you have a great love for beautiful women, then beautiful women will know it. And they will be attracted to you."

"All women are a little crazy, cultivate their craziness. That way their true personality comes out."

Indulge Craziness

"They love to indulge in their craziness. But too many men stop them."

"They love a man who encourages them to be crazy."

Vadim put down his Bloody Mary. Across the table blonde Annette, just 22, smiled over the top of her water glass.

"Annette cannot cook," Vadim noted, by way of nothing in particular.

Annette tilted her head and narrowed her wicked-kitten eyes. Like Bardot, she is simply curvaceous. Both have high cheekbones, a provocative pout, the out-thrust chest. Are they really so much alike?

You Too Should Go To The VOGUE For Your BEAUTIFUL PERMANENT

It's The Vogue — Dial 4-6000 Appleton's Leading Salon

"I do not see the resemblance," said Vadim. "But everybody seems to see it. So maybe I am not seeing straight."

Came the inevitable question: "What does Annette have that Brigitte hasn't?"

Vadim shrugged: "A sense of humor."

He said Annette's first movie will be made in France early in 1959. Vadim will direct. It will be called "Dangerous Acquaintances" and will be based on an 18th century novel. Annette will play a sweet young wife.

No running around in a bath towel as Bardot used to do?

"No," said Vadim, "Annette is not ready for that."

Gay Party Table

Christmas is a time for children, when every small treat, toy or decoration becomes a magic thing, to be cherished and remembered.

It's a time to plan children's parties, and to make them as gay and memorable as you can. The party table is, of course, the focal point, and it's easy to decorate it with festive homemade ornaments, made from such simple things as paper plates and hard candies.

Choose paper plates in red, green and white. Cut out a Christmas tree from the green plate, and a snowman from the white one, Christmas bells from the red one. Trim the tree and decorate the snowman and the bells with bright colored tiny hard candies. Then mount each on another paper plate to a small base of stiff cardboard to make them stand erect.

For the party dessert serve ice cream clowns. Just turn an ice cream cone upside down on a paper plate and make a raisin face on the ice cream.

Legislative Committee

Appleton Chamber of Commerce President Walter L. Rugland has reappointed David B. Bliss chairman of the chamber's committee on state legislation. The committee will be organized and start meetings in January.

Our Children
Fables, Myths are Real to Youngsters

BY ANGELO PATRI
"Is it right to tell little children about Santa Claus?" Of course it is.
The good saint belongs to children and their Christmas holiday. The good people who think that it is wrong to tell a child about Santa bringing gifts down the chimney are trying to impress the children about the beauty and the stern necessity of knowing and telling the truth.
Truth here means facts

Needle Work
All sorts of wonderful things happen in that world. A cow jumps over the moon; a pussycat and an owl go to sea; an old woman with hosts of children lives in a shoe and a dog talks to his mistress as easily as a fairy waves a wand. He uses his imagination in an effort to live, on his level, among adults and their factual world.
This stage of life and its ways are essential to the wholesome development of children. Facts at this age, facts beyond the understanding of the little ones, can stultify their intelligence.
Intelligence, knowledge based solely on facts, can, and has, produced heartless cruel people before now. We do not want to run that risk with our children so in this fairy-tale stage of their growth we tell them fairy tales, we encourage them to use their imaginations for their happiness, for their mental and spiritual development.

Lots of Business for Santa. Old St. Nick will have a great many stockings, to fill in Chicago when he visits the household of 18 children next week. Mrs. Herman Hatch, seated, center, holding her twins, Brenda and Glenda, has taken over the task of raising her 14 brothers and sisters as well as her own four youngsters after their mother, Mrs. Albert Williams, died Nov. 8. At right, foreground, is Mrs. Smith's father, Alenza, holding twins Sharon and Karen Williams. Herman Smith is behind his father-in-law.

It Won't be Easy
Couple to Have Christmas With Recent Addition of 14 Children

BY WILLIAM J. CONWAY
Chicago — They're going to have Christmas at the Herman Smith house, but it won't be easy.
"It happened too near Christmas to do anything much," Mrs. Smith said, "but we're goin' to have a tree and things."
What happened was that Mrs. Smith's mother, Mrs. Albert Williams, died Nov. 8. While the mother was in her deathbed, Mrs. Smith vowed to keep the 14 young Williams children together.
Mrs. Smith took charge of her brothers and sisters, ranging in age from two months to 13 years. She has four youngsters of her own, aged two months to four years.
So now Mrs. Smith is mothering 18 little ones. And she herself is only 22.
How does she manage?
Up at 4:30 a.m. "I get up at 4:30," she said. "Have to get a brother off on his paper route. Then I get breakfast ready. One mornin' it's oatmeal, one mornin' pancakes, one mornin' grits and eggs."
"At supper I feed 'em in shifts," she said. "First the babies, then the school kids, then the grownups. We can eat in peace that way."
The Smiths have been living in a 6-room basement flat in a 13-year-old frame house. They have just rented the eight rooms on the first floor to give them a total of 14.
"The rent for the two flats is $120 a month," said Herman Smith, a muscular man of 32 who makes $60 a week as a gasoline station attendant. "It takes $50 to $75 a week for groceries."
The bulk of the double family's income is $414 a month for aid to dependent children. It goes to the widower, Alenza Williams, who lives with the Smiths et al. He isn't working because of a chronic stomach ailment.
Will Keep Them Together
Mrs. Smith, who shows a fondness for such newfangled styles as tuxedo pants while displaying the dauntless spirit of pioneer womenfolk, is determined to keep all the kids together.
"I got love for my brothers and sisters and I can't see 'em livin' anywhere else," she said.
There are special problems, of course, at this time of the year. One involves Emily, 10, and one of the three sets of Williams twins, Annette and Anise, 11.
"Momma promised 'em a watch," young Mrs. Smith said. "Now they come to me and say: 'We goin' to get our watches for Christmas?'"
"I told 'em they'd probably get a little somethin' but don't build up no hopes."

Last Minute Ideas for Decoration

Here are ideas for the finishing touches on holiday decoration, to put bright reminders of the season anywhere in the house. The first three at left count on candles and natural greenery, which always can do more than their part, here sparking extra glitter with bright ornaments.
For the mantel arrangement, the ornaments are the spike of brilliant metallic beads that are strung on wire and come bound together. They're attached to the candles' bases and are bent over into graceful arcs. One single candle just below is based on a pin-type flower holder, which also holds large natural green leaves clustered tight to cover it, and beads on wire entwining the candle. The big candle in the hurricane shade becomes extra important as it's set into a footed bowl filled with leaves.
For decoration in unexpected places, today's designs dramatize a door and set a hanging lamp a-sparkle. On the door, tinsel, evergreen garland or colored rope trim is attached at top and bottom; then is draped in loose swags from the center. Ornaments weigh the swags to form the tree shape. The lamp decoration requires a circle of wire larger than the lamp shade circumference. The wire circle is suspended by ribbon, tinsel or decorative rope, on which ornaments attach.
A striking table for the punch bowl wears a deep-pointed overskirt of colored tulle which shows the all-year-round tablecloth through it and finishes with ball ornaments — or bells or tassels — at the points. Make the tulle overskirt from a pattern. First cut a circle the size of the table top, then divide the circumference of the circle into equal parts. Draw a triangle with this measurement as one side and the other long sides of equal length. Draw around the circle on the tulle and then around the triangle pattern as many times as there will be points. If the tulle can't be one-piece, cut the top and points separately and sew them together.
Don't forget natural flowers as well as natural greenery for decoration. The special idea sketched suggests pink carnations and tiny garnet roses in small urns.

Milwaukee Seeks Regional Planning

Metropolitan Study Commission Wants 7-County Joint Effort

The Milwaukee metropolitan study commission wants a 7-county regional planning commission similar to the pioneering Fox Valley Regional Planning commission.
Milwaukee commissioners said Thursday the regional commission should include Milwaukee, Waukesha, Racine, Kenosha, Washington, Ozaukee and Walworth counties.
Ten municipalities in Outagamie and Winnebago counties are ignoring local boundary lines to work together in preparing a comprehensive plan for the development of the Fox Cities. Their working tool is the Fox Valley Regional Planning commission.
Formed in 1956, the valley commission was formed in 1956, growing from a joint planning agreement between Neenah and Menasha citizens in the 1940s.
Currently the commission is on the threshold of ordering a master development plan to be devised by a consulting firm.
The Milwaukee commission earlier had urged a 4-county planning group as a beginning. It would include Milwaukee, Racine and Waukesha counties with the other three counties to be added later.

Legislature to Be Given New Mortality Table

New Orleans — Paul J. Rogan, Wisconsin insurance commissioner, said Thursday a bill would be introduced in the 1959 Wisconsin legislature to put into effect a new mortality table approved by the National association of Insurance Commissioners.
Rogan was here to attend an association meeting.
The new table, Rogan said, would be the first change since 1941 and would reflect advances in medical science. A mortality table is a statistical record of rates of death at different ages and is a standard observed by life insurance companies.
The table was approved by commissioners after a two and one-half year study.
C. M. Sheehan, Minnesota insurance commissioner, chairman of the committee on mortality, said the new table would benefit insurance buyers through a system that will bring changes in cash surrender values and in non-forfeiture values and generally serve the industry and policyholder better. He added it would not lead to significant reduction in premiums.

Christmas Party

More than 300 children are expected to attend the first Christmas party for Elm Tree Bakery employees and their families at 1 p.m. Saturday in the Ambrosia room of the bakery. There will be movies and Santa Claus will visit.

U. S. Makes Big Comeback In Space Race

Scientists Eagerly Anticipate New Fields Now Opening

BY ALTON BLAKESLEE
Associated Press Science Writer

New York —(AP)—Atlas' triumph brings human space flight and astounding space laboratories a big step closer.

Sprung from well-kept secrecy, it could spur the Russians to push harder and faster in their always secret space plans.

Just 14 months ago, man was still earthbound. Then Sputnik I startled, and shocked, the western world.

Now the United States has scored a prodigious comeback. It possesses the heaviest as well as the most satellites. It has sent two probes nearly one-third of the way to the moon.

Temporarily, America leads.

But Russia could play the next trump soon. Indeed, some space experts are puzzled why she hasn't done something spectacular since the 14-ton Sputnik III soared up last May.

Advances Ability

The main significance of Atlas is in advancing the ability accurately to thrust big and heavy satellites into space.

Big enough to carry men.

Big enough to watch the world's weather in the making through TV eyes, tracking hurricanes, vastly improving forecasts.

Or act as great communications centrals, instantaneously relaying a vast volume of

Much of Colombia City Reported to be on Fire
Bogota, Colombia.—(AP)—Much of the small town of Sopetran was reported on fire Thursday night but early reports said so far no persons were dead or injured.
Sopetran is a town of about 3,000, 23 miles northwest of Medellin, in northwest Colombia.
It was Colombia's second major fire this week. A display of Christmas lights ignited in a Bogota department store Tuesday and 84 persons died.

cables, "mail" and TV shows to any point on earth.

Or to carry telescopes seeing our universe with awesome and rewarding new clarity, undisturbed by the earth's shimmering air.

All these are eagerly anticipated by scientists.

Main Workhorse

The Atlas missile will be a main workhorse toward these goals until far more powerful rockets are developed.

Atlas, with smaller rockets staged atop it, could also launch instrumented probes investigating Venus and Mars, or going into orbit as artificial planets of the sun. Shots for Venus and Mars are among U. S. current plans.

Before man looks down at earth from a skyperch, much hard work remains to be done.

We must learn how to recover the protective, well-stocked capsule that can sustain his life within a satellite. Re-entry and medical problems of survival are being vigorously studied.

Rockets and controls must become reliable enough to give any volunteer a really good chance of making the round-trip.

Russia already has flung two dogs 280 miles high within a rocket which fell to earth. The dogs parachuted safely within a capsule.

Lloyd Alexander, Milaca, Minn., truck driver, almost blinded as the result of tear gas thrown at him in Louisville, Ky., will testify at the trial of three teamster union members, charged with the act.

4-Ton U. S. Satellite Directed Into Orbit

did two weeks ago, when it traveled a prescribed 6,325-mile course over the Atlantic.

Of last night's test, the Pentagon said: "Most successful."

But it did much more, as the Pentagon pointed out in a statement:

"The entire vehicle achieved an orbit. As such, it is the largest satellite that has been put into orbit by the United States. More importantly, this marks the first time that a high accuracy missile guidance system has been used to steer such a vehicle into its orbital trajectory."

Thus, in a matter of minutes, the United States proved once more that it has a dependable ICBM and also took the wind out of Soviet Premier Nikita Khrushchev's taunts about "lemon-size" U. S. satellites.

Neither the military, scientific, nor propaganda values would be lost on the Soviet bloc and the uncommitted nations watching the east-west struggle for space supremacy.

There was a novel twist to the launching which sent the Atlas soaring at 17,000 miles an hour. In its nose cone was a unique communications system—and there was speculation that its tape recordings included the voice of Eisenhower.

Directed Messages
Newsmen expressed this speculation to Pentagon officials, who would neither confirm nor deny it.

The communications system is part of the 150-pound payload in the rocket's nose cone. It records messages sent to it and, on a command signal later, sends the messages back to earth.

The first test of this was only partially successful. The message was received all right but came back garbled.

The Atlas weighed 100 tons on the ground. The combined thrust of its three rocket engines at sea level was 350,000 pounds. Once fired, its two booster engines dropped off and what was left, the instrumented carcass and burned-out third engine, went into orbit. Powered flight lasted 41 minutes.

The air force and the Pentagon's advanced research projects agency were at pains to keep the purpose of the launching a secret in advance.

Only the Beginning
The general impression created beforehand at Cape Canaveral was that the Atlas would be fired on a 5,000-mile ICBM course out to sea.

The spectacular shot that actually took place drew such comment as this:

Karl Bossart, test director at Convair-Astronautics, which built the Atlas: "Only the beginning. With something else on top of it, the Atlas can reach the Moon or Venus."

Krafft A. Ehrliche, assistant to the chief engineer at Convair: "We can put a man in space with the Atlas, with special precautions to keep him alive."

Eisenhower: "This launching constitutes a distinct step forward in space operations. The success opens new opportunities to the United States and all mankind."

Dr. William Pickering, director of the California Institute of Technology's jet propulsion laboratory: "Magnificent... an opportunity for more elaborate experiments."

Rep. George Mahon (D-Texas), chairman of the house appropriations defense subcommittee: "A great breakthrough that probably will have a major effect on the upcoming military budget... a forerunner of military satellites which will begin to take on greater significance."

Three other satellites are still in space—all American. They include:

The navy's Vanguard I, a 34-pounder launched March 17 and expected to stay up 200 years.

The army's explorer I, 308 pounds, launched Jan. 31.

Explorer IV, 371 pounds, launched July 26. Both explorers have a 5-year life expectancy.

The army's Explorer III was lofted March 26 and fell in late June. Russia's Sputnik I and the dog-carrying Sputnik II, fired Oct. 4 and Nov. 3, 1957, also have dropped.

ence. Of course we will try to keep track if it comes within our area."

Moscow radio broadcast the news to the Russian people without comment. Listeners to transmissions in both Russian and English merely heard that the United States had successfully launched a 4-ton Atlas missile into orbit.

In communist East Germany, the official ADN news agency said the weight of the Atlas was not so significant when compared to Russia's Sputnik III and the rocket that carried it into space.

The official East German radio relegated news about the Atlas satellite to the final spot in its morning newscast.

Radio Budapest in communist Hungary gave the weight and other data on the satellite but made no comment.

Answers Signals

British scientists said they will try to pick up the satellite signals but it may travel below the horizon for them. They also noted the Atlas only signals in response to a ground station and does not transmit continuously.

In Paris, Gen. Paul Bergeron, leading French astronautical expert, said the satellite "could give us the most complete information on the high atmosphere."

"The Americans, by their successful launching, have demonstrated how a lag can be made up and how errors can be repaired through close cooperation and intense work," he added.

Andre Muller, a scientist of the Paris observatory, said his calculations indicate the life of the satellite could be longer than the 20 days given it by U. S. scientists.

In Tokyo, Prof. Tetsuji Okamoto of Tokyo Engineering university said: "The United States has at last caught up with the Soviet Union in rocket technology."

Garcia Hails Launching
Japanese scientists were unable to make visual observations of the satellite because of bad weather.

In Manila, a spokesman for President Carlos Garcia hailed the launching as a tremendous achievement and said this placed the United States ahead of the Soviet Union in rocketry.

Late editions of Britain's biggest newspapers revamped their front pages to carry the news.

"Amazing U. S. Space Triumph," trumpeted the tabloid Daily Mirror. It said:

"The American stride forward into space proves the Americans now have a super rocket that can serve a dual role—blasting Russia's secret war centers or enabling the United States to put big research laboratories crammed with instruments of many kinds into space."

Nearer Space Travel

"It also brings very much nearer the day when man makes the first trip into space."

At Jodrell Bank, England, the operators of the world's largest radio telescope, which has tracked other American satellites and the pioneer moon shots, apparently were as much surprised as the rest of the world.

At the time of the launching, the telescope was engaged in routine astronomical observation, and four Americans who have helped in previous trackings of U. S. space shots were off duty.

The news of the launching reached Russia early in the Man Pleads Guilty To Assault Charge For Beating Infant Son

Olathe, Kan.—(AP)—Orlan Q. Cook, 27, pleaded guilty yesterday to a charge of assault in the beating of his 11-month-old son.

Magistrate William S. Allen sentenced Cook to six months in jail, then released him on 2-year parole. Charges against Mrs. Cook, 23, were dropped.

She told police her husband struck the child, Kevin, on the head because he wouldn't sit still while they were taking pictures for Christmas cards.

"I just spanked the boy," Cook told the magistrate.

The family's babysitter took Kevin to a physician for treatment of bruises on the face and body Wednesday. The physician notified police.

Europe was taken by surprise. In Paris, where the NATO foreign ministers council ended its meeting yesterday, the cabinet ministers and military leaders were all asleep.

Sec. of State Dulles was flying from Paris to a vacation in Jamaica.

Francis P. Murphy, Former Governor of New Hampshire, Dies

Nashua, N.H.—(AP)—Former Gov. Francis P. Murphy, millionaire industrialist and prominent Catholic layman-philanthropist, died today at his home. He was 81.

Murphy, who was governor from 1937 through 1940, was the only Catholic ever to serve as governor of New Hampshire. He was elected to two consecutive 2-year terms as a Republican.

Two years after leaving office he ran for the U. S. senate as a Democrat but was defeated by Sen. Styles Bridges (R-NH).

He was chairman of the board of trustees of St. Anselm's college at Manchester. Only last Nov. 20 he pledged $500,000 to a St. Anselm's building and development campaign.

He also was prominent in the field of radio and television as founder of station WMUR and WMUR-TV in Manchester.

Murphy learned the shoe business as a boy and in 1922 was co-founder of the J. F. McElwain Shoe company, where he served as vice president and general manager. The company is New Hampshire's largest shoe factory.

GOP Seeks 25,000 Active Workers

District Leaders Appraise Party's Loss; Plan Immediate Campaign

 Post-Crescent Staff Writer
 Madison — One of the most trite but most vital phrases in political party operations became the keynote of the defeated Wisconsin Republican party as its district leaders gathered here this week for a realistic appraisal of the Nov. 4 debacle.
 The phrase is "local organization."
 GOP Chairman Claude J. Jasper disclosed that the committee approved his goal of enlisting 25,000 new members of the working local party units. The significance of that figure can be measured only by comparisons. He guessed that the party during the fall campaign could count on 8,000 to 10,000 active workers. While he did not say it, the Democratic party headquarters across the capital square counted on slightly more than 16,000 active workers at the same time.
 Set 35,000 Goal
 Jasper's goal was probably set high deliberately. There is no record that any Wisconsin party, at any time in its history, ever attained the 35,000 organization members he described as the objective of the GOP.
 The party leader also took another leaf from the book of his Democratic rivals when he announced that the party intends to begin the reorganization drive now, many months before the onset of the 1960 campaigns. Only through laborious efforts between the election years, as he put it, can the Republicans hope to overtake the Democrats now that they have won their first significant elections in this state in a quarter of a century and have taken over overwhelming control of the congress.
 Thompson's Ambitions
 The building task will be undertaken with a nucleus of one active Republican worker in each of the election precincts of the state, the committee decided.
 Meanwhile, the week's developments suggested clearly that Gov. Vernon W. Thomson, the defeated state executive, does not regard his own career as ended.
 Thomson came to the GOP state committee meeting to talk about the future of the party — a future which he plainly hinted, if he did not explicitly say, will include a place for him.
 "We must conduct our campaign and publicly efforts on a continuing, 2-year basis rather than on the traditional schedule of two months before each election," he advised.
 As he has in other post-election utterances, Thomson appeared anxious to protect the record and the reputation of his administration, and claimed that the victorious Democrats and their sympathizers are engaged in a campaign to lay the blame for their forthcoming difficulties upon the departing GOP regime.
 He complained that "some Republican party members and office-holders have already allowed themselves to be tricked by the Democrats and the pro-Democrat newspapers into rolling over and playing dead while the Democrats themselves begin their campaign for 1960."
 Boy Takes Class Work Seriously
 Little Rock, Ark. —(AP)—Kenneth King, a fifth grader of Walnut Creek, Calif., takes his school work seriously.
 He wants a replica of the state seal of Arkansas for a project he's doing in class, and he wants its fast, apparently.
 State police headquarters here got a long-distance telephone call from Kenneth last night.
 Could they grant his request?
 The officers said they would refer the matter to Sec. of State C. G. Hall.

U. S. Scientific Prestige Rebounds
 Comeback Seems Incredible After Early Shattering Soviet Success

BY LEWIS GULICK
 Washington —(AP)—America's scientific and military prestige, a key element in the cold war, rebounded high today from the lows of double disaster a year ago.
 A mighty U. S. Atlas rocket roared high into orbit around the earth last night. It became a satellite weighing between 8,700 and 8,800 pounds—three times heavier than the biggest Russian spulnik.
 That was a comparison easily understood by the man in the street in London, Moscow and New Delhi.
 It carried significance, too, for the military officer and government official: The United States had a missile with power and control to dump a nuclear warhead on a target on another continent.
 Of such stuff is made prestige that can bolster friends, give pause to enemies and nudge the vital in-betweeners who want to lean with the winning side.
 Incredible Comeback
 The U. S. comeback seemed incredible compared with the shattering Soviet success starting with Sputnik I on Oct. 4, 1957, a Pearl Harbor day for U. S. prestige.
 American satellite builders accused the Russians of propaganda intent. They said they were readying satellites for orbit too, but without the Soviet use of a blunderbuss intercontinental rocket engine to shoot aloft a 184-pound payload.
 President Eisenhower ordered full speed ahead. A few U. S. friends aboard were heard to say that once Americans got going, they could run a good race.
 On Nov. 3 the Russians threw into orbit Sputnik II, carrying little dog Laika. The weight this time: a half ton.
 On Dec. 6, Pearl Harbor day again so far as U. S. prestige was concerned, America's first satellite-bearing rocket—a navy vanguard—blew up on its launching pad.
 First U. S. Satellite
 Not until Jan. 31 of this year did the United States get its first foot in the satellite race. But the army's Explorer I weighed only 31 pounds, a midweight against its Russian rivals.
 On March 17 the navy finally got a satellite into orbit, too, shooting Vanguard I to a record far point of 2,246 miles to give its satellite a top life expectancy of 200 years. But Vanguard I was a Lilliputian 31 pounds.
 On May 15, the Russians tossed up Sputnik III, 2,929 pounds. It's still going.
 Yet the American scientific show was coming to life. An atomic sub nosed under the arctic icecap. The air force and the army tried rockets that soared one third of the way to the moon. An Atlas zoomed on course for 6,325 miles across the Atlantic.
 Can Be Seen
 Soviet Premier Khrushchev said the Russians had a missile capable of going 8,700 miles. U. S. officials underscored the word "capable," discounting communist possession of any such operational weapon for at least two years.
 American authorities deny last night's launching was a propaganda move. They said it would carry out important communications experiments.
 Atlas is big enough to be seen with the naked eye by the millions in the heavily populated areas of the earth over which it was aimed. And its tape recording playbacks are highly convenient for worldwide rebroadcasting by the Voice of America.
 Robbery of Drug Store For 37th Time Leads To Death of Owner
 Venice, Calif. —(AP)—In 30 years, James Dolson's suburban drug store was held up 37 times. The last time led to his death.
 Two robbers forced Dolson, 76, to stand against a wall at gunpoint last July 27. He collapsed from excitement with a ruptured blood vessel in his brain.
 Just recently Dolson tried to go back to work.
 His wife Anita said yesterday: "It didn't work. He was too nervous. He closed the store early Wednesday and came upstairs. He said every time a customer came in he was afraid it was another bandit. He lay down to take a nap and died in his sleep."

State Dinner Guests Get Word of Atlas

Ike Breaks News To Diplomats of 41 Other Nations

BY FRANCES LEWINE

Washington —(AP)—President Eisenhower strode dramatically into the center of a glittering White House diplomatic gathering last night to announce that the United States had placed a nearly 9,000-pound satellite in orbit.
 He gave his dinner guests—who happened to be top-ranking diplomats from 41 other nations—the first word of the great scientific advance.
 The news that a mighty Atlas missile was in orbit reached the president at the White House minutes before he was due to go down to the state dinner.
 Eisenhower decided to share his secret with his dinner guests even before his press secretary, James C. Hagerty, made the news known to the rest of the world.
 Saves Moment
 But he saved the dramatic moment until he had shaken hands with each of the 78 guests assembled in the east ballroom.
 The red-coated marine corps band, unaware of the president's plan, had struck up a march for the chief executive to lead his guests from the ballroom to the state dining room.
 But Eisenhower didn't follow the schedule. Instead, he turned back into the middle of the ballroom.
 There, standing beneath three glittering chandeliers and in the dangle of an 18-foot Christmas tree, he announced that he had something interesting to tell his guests.
 Simply, the president reported that the United States had gotten a satellite of almost 9,000 pounds into orbit and it was expected to stay there about 25 days.
 Interesting Topic
 The diplomats applauded. It apparently provided a specially interesting topic of conversation for the dinner that followed.
 But by the time some 200 other guests arrived for an after-dinner musicale, there didn't seem to be much further talk on space topics.
 Eisenhower later chatted about cattle and farming with a friend, J. Willard Marriott, owner of a chain of restaurants, and a Marshall, Va., farm where Eisenhower visited four years ago.
 Last night's dinner was the second successive white tie affair for members of the Washington diplomatic corps. It seemed to bring out the most handsome array of ballgowns and native costumes seen at the White House this season.

Negroes in Kansas City Boycotting Five Stores
 Kansas City —(AP)—The chairman of a Kansas City Negro organization said yesterday her group is boycotting five downtown department stores because they have refused to serve Negroes in their restaurants.
 "Our no-buying campaign, put into effect last Tuesday when they told us no, will be continued," Mrs. Kenneth Kerford, chairman of the community committee for social action, told a newsman.
 She said the five stores are Emery - Bird-Thayer, Jones, Kline's, Macy's and Peck's.
 Mrs. Kerford said the committee, composed entirely of Kansas City Negroes, asked the stores to open their restaurants but the request was rejected after five weeks of negotiations.
 "We can buy anything in the stores but we can't sit down in their restaurants and have a cup of coffee," she said.

Meet to Discuss Future Scares

Mayor Bell Calls Session for City Officials; Costs Cited

Neenah — Mayor Chester S. Bell has called a meeting this afternoon of city officials to discuss what the city should do in any future bomb scares.

Attending this meeting will be Police Chief Irving Stilp, fire Chief John Zick, Supt. of Schools Harold B. Mennes and Pres. Paul Groth of the board of education.

This morning's school suspension was the second time in eight days that a bomb scare was reported, although today's involved all Winnebago county schools. The school board will decide Jan. 12 about making up the suspended classes.

Last Thursday a 13-year-old student at Kimberly Junior High school called the school during the noon hour recess to report a bomb would go off in the boiler room at 1:15. School was not evacuated that day while the search was conducted.

Given Lecture

All 33 members of that student's class, though, and their parents had to show up at the city hall the next morning where they were lectured by police and school officials as to the seriousness and dangers of such an offense.

Further disciplinary action was held in abeyance by school and police authorities until a conference could be held to decide what action to take.

The mayor pointed out suspension of the schools for one day costs the city quite a few thousands of dollars, both in the school budget costs and in the extra time of policemen and firemen called in to take part in the search and who are given an equivalent time off from their regular working day at some future date.

County Leads In Purchase of Savings Bonds

11-Month Sales Oversubscribed by More Than 10 Pct.

Oshkosh — Winnebago county leads Wisconsin counties in oversubscription of buying E and H savings bonds for the first 11 months of the year, Leighton Hough, county chairman, has reported.

Sales for the bonds during the 11 month period amounted to $2,627,331 or 111.14 per cent of the year's goal. This compares with a statewide achievement of 88.2 per cent of the $111,200,000 goal.

Dane, Kenosha, Milwaukee, Racine and Rock counties are the only areas purchasing more bonds in the period than Winnebago county.

Harold Dickens, state director of the bond program, said despite unemployment in some industrial areas, the 1958 bond purchases will exceed $100 million for the sixth straight year and will likely top the 1957 sales by about a million dollars.

He was one of more than 100 policemen, firemen, school administrators and men teachers who made an inch-by-inch search of all Neenah schools this morning after the Winnebago County Sheriff's office Thursday night received a call that a bomb had been placed in a Winnebago county school.

S. J. Luchsinger Withdraws as Juvenile Judge

Head of Municipal Court Protests Inadequate Salary

Oshkosh — Protesting the inadequate salary, Municipal Judge S. J. Luchsinger has announced that as of Jan. 15 he no longer will act as juvenile judge for Winnebago county.

He made his announcement in letters to county officials and to welfare and police authorities of the county.

The county board probably will decide on necessary action at its Jan. 6 meeting.

Judge Luchsinger had requested an increase in salary for the two judgeships which was turned down at the November county board session. The combined salary is $8,400 a year of which $2,000 is for duties as juvenile judge.

In November the county board judiciary committee referred the matter to the personnel committee with a recommendation that a compromise increase be granted. The personnel committee, however, recommended that no increases be given on grounds other judges had made no requests for an increase. The board adopted the personnel committee's recommendation.

Captain Declares

County Policeman Must be to Some Extent Both Psychologist, Lawyer

Oshkosh — A county policeman must be both psychologist and to a certain extent a lawyer as well as a person skilled in advanced first aid and police work, Capt. E. A. Harwood of the sheriff's police reviewed today.

He is a gentleman of human relations, the police captain said. His work is of a dangerous nature since the unexpected may happen at any time.

The field of law enforcement alone requires the exercise of a great deal of tact and judgment on the part of the county police officer. His judgment must be snap judgment in many cases and his decisions must be instantaneous and correct.

He cannot set aside his decision as a judge might do, for a week, month or six months but it must be there on the spot, Capt. Harwood indicated. "He must know the laws as a wrong decision on his part may subject him to false arrest."

No Law Books at Hand. "He does not have a desk with law books to refer to at his immediate disposal."

Besides traffic duties, the county policeman takes part in water rescue work, dragging for drowned persons, checking tavern brawls and family trouble complaints, investigations from murders to breakins, arson, hold ups and accidents, grand larceny cases, escort work such as funerals or heavy machinery or large buildings, school zone patrolling to protect children, safety talks and answering calls on prowlers or thieves both day and night.

He also is called upon to give correctional guidance in juvenile delinquency, correction guidance in parental delinquency, follow up work for probation officers, truance officer's work in the county, assist the sheriff upon request, make out reports on accidents and complaints. Testify as a professional witness in many cases, have knowledge of federal communications commissions laws and codes, knowledge of advanced first aid work and serve as civil defense lieutenants in time of disaster or national emergencies.

Police work has become a profession, Capt. Harwood cited. "The policeman has to use tact and courtesy and very good judgment. Not only must he make the arrest or apprehension if the case necessitates it but in other cases he must keep the person from being arrested and on the straight and narrow path.

"In many instances, if a person is given a warning or

Santa Claus Float To Make Stops at 10 Neenah Sites

Neenah — The Neenah fire department Santa Claus float will be at 10 Neenah sites Saturday afternoon. Candy and popcorn balls will be distributed to the youngsters.

The sites and times include Hoover school, 1 p.m.; Lincoln school, 1:15; McKinley school, 1:25; Western avenue and Main street, 1:40; Cook park, 2 p.m.; Roosevelt school, 2:10; Columbian park 2:30; Congress place and Stevens street, 2:45; Laudan boulevard and Oak street, 3 p.m., and Langley boulevard, 3:15.

break, he will appreciate it and try not to do it again. The policeman will have the future cooperation and friendliness and respect of that person."

Knowing the people and the territory very well is the reason why the county policeman who was raised, schooled and worked in the community all his life can perform all the duties he is called upon to do and with the utmost efficiency, he mentioned.

The traffic problem is getting greater and the increase in fatal accidents is alarming. Adequate and firm enforcement of highway laws by qualified, trained personnel is essential today as never before, the county police captain declared.

The solution to the traffic problem is a simple one, he suggested. "All it calls for is a willingness on the part of every driver to accept his responsibility as an American citizen and a human being to learn the traffic laws — and to obey them."

Owning a Horse Involves Responsibilities in Care

AP Newsfeature
Chicago — A horse is a real joy, as many a teenager knows, but if you take on the responsibility of owning a horse, be prepared to give it proper attention. If you can't care for it, stick to the riding stables or horses that belong to friends.

Some young people enjoy riding, want their own horse, but when faced with caring for the animal, they are overwhelmed — it conflicts with their other pleasures, and sometimes their school activities.

Work involved in owning a horse includes rising early in the morning to feed it and clean the stall, exercising it sometimes when the snow is on the ground, grooming it, especially in spring when the long winter hair is still with the animal.

But there are wonderful rewards —

Rewards
The early morning chores will bring peaches to the complexion, give you good healthful exercise and a big appetite.

If you are below car driving license age, the horse can be your means of transportation, a boon to steady dating as two 15-year-olds who lived five miles apart found out.

You can show your horse in shows, and get a special thrill out of performing with your very own steed, as you wear some charming clothes — velvet cap, riding jodhpurs and chic jacket.

Horses are like people, too. If you aren't good to them, they'll be mean, and if you treat them gently, they'll return your favors in kind.

It seems incredible that any one could be unkind to a horse, or any other animal for that matter, but some morons are.

Imports

Little horsies like the 13 Haffingers just imported to this country, the first of their breed to set foot on these shores, are so beautiful, they are almost breath-taking. The Haffinger, imported from the Tyrol by Temple Smith of a Chicago suburb, is not much larger than a pony, is light chestnut, almost gold with a double mane. One of the 10 mares has beautiful curly hair that looks like it has had a permanent wave.

A perfect horse for the young rider, the Haffinger is small, surefooted and loves to nuzzle its owner. It's a willing workhorse also, on the farm or in the forest, and brings a foal every year. It'll be bred in this country especially with young people in mind because of its gentle but sturdy nature and sure pace.

Clean Sticky Irons After Use, Then Wax the Bottom

Oshkosh — Sticky electric irons should be cleaned right after use. While the iron is hot, sprinkle salt on a piece of paper and rub the iron over it. Then wax the bottom of the warm iron with paraffin or beeswax. Remove excess wax by running the iron over a clean piece of paper. Fine steel wool used gently will remove burned starch from a cool iron.

Chromé toaster finishes should be cleaned with a damp cloth. A small paint brush will help remove crumbs from inside the toaster. Shaking a toaster upside down or probing the interior is apt to damage the coils.

The age-old caution of keeping matches away from children still holds. But it also helps to teach children what to do in case of fire. Your words of wisdom may come

Agent Has Recipe for Holiday Pie

Oshkosh — For a special Christmas dessert, Miss Lois Klusmeyer, county home agent, suggests White Christmas pie.

Make your favorite pastry shell for an eight inch pie. Soften two teaspoons gelatin in three tablespoons cold water. Mix together six tablespoons sugar, three tablespoons flour and one-third teaspoon salt in a sauce pan. Stir in gradually one and one-eighth cups milk.

Cook over low heat, stirring until it boils. Boil one minute, then removed from the heat. Stir in softened gelatin and cool. When partially set, beat with a rotary beater until smooth. Blend in one-half teaspoon vanilla, and one-fourth, teaspoon almond extract.

Gently fold in one-third cup whipping cream, whipped until stiff. Carefully fold into a meringue of two large egg whites, one-fourth teaspoon cream of tartar and six tablespoons sugar. Fold in three-fourths cup moist, shredded coconut.

Pile into the cooled, baked pie shell. Sprinkle with moist shredded coconut. Chill until set, about two hours. Take the chilled pie out of the refrigerator about 20 minutes before serving.

Teachers Will Do Battle for School Money

Education Group Speaks Scornfully of Taxpayers Protests

Post-Crescent Madison Bureau

Madison — Organized teachers, traditionally one of the potent forces in state legislative affairs, are being called to do battle for the higher school appropriations which will highlight the financial dilemma of the new Democratic state administration.

The Wisconsin Education association periodical published here speaks with scorn of "some short-sighted taxpayer groups that are screaming about the cost of education." Such groups choose to ignore or distort the fact that school costs are rising, along with other costs, and that there is a steady increase in the enrollment of the state as a whole, it is said.

It then challenged: "Teachers Fight. All taxpayers have a right to insist on a dollar's worth of service for a dollar spent for taxes."

"But teachers should fight all individuals or groups of individuals who would cut the throat of public education in order to have more for the luxuries of life. American cannot sacrifice its human resources through neglect and expect to survive in a competitive world. Government services are entitled to a share of the productive wealth of the nation."

The state department of public instruction recently told Gov.-elect Gaylord Nelson it will need about $19,000,000 more during the next two years to maintain a present school aid schedule. Later an advisory committee on the school aid formula won legislative council endorsement for a new schedule that would cost about $20,000,000 more for the next biennium, and raise the total of budget proposals pending on Nelson's desk to a level about $100,000,000 above present state executive budget spending.

Kaukauna Boys' Parents Pay for Shooting Spree

Waupaca — Six Kaukauna juveniles brought their parents to Waupaca Wednesday to settle up a bill for damages they caused while hunting in the town of Farmington, Sept. 20.

Each family was assessed $17.85 as its prorated share of the $107 worth of damage caused on the Harold Jensen farm where the boys fired holes in a tractor muffler and barn ventilators with a .22 caliber rifle and damaged Jensen's steel barn roof with shotgun blasts. They said they were hunting doves.

Sheriff Floyd Taylor, who arranged the meeting when the boys were traced through the license number on their car, said discipline will be left up to the parents.

Appleton, Neenah Crashes Involved in Crash Near Oshkosh

Oshkosh — Cars driven by Donald O. Ladtko, 23, 1500 W. Harris street, Appleton, and Gordon P. Gill, 324 Ninth street, Neenah, collided as the latter pulled on to Highway 45 from a parking lot just north of the Oshkosh city limits at 12:18 p.m. Thursday.

Ladtko said he was about 50 feet south of the driveway when Gill pulled on to the highway. The Ladtko car hit Gill's right front bumper after which Ladtko pulled to the right and struck the rear fender of a car owned by Garrin L. Schields, 21, Berlin, which was parked on the east side of the road.

Cars operated by Raymond A. McClone, 36, 1107 E. Moorpark, Appleton, and Terry J. Wingrove, 20, 128 Dennhardt avenue, Neenah, collided in the Valley Fair parking lot at 10:25 Thursday morning.

Oshkosh Bar Gets Warning From Police

Oshkosh — The owners of the Char Bar, 210 State street, Oshkosh, have been informed by Oshkosh police that until they can show that their food business exceeds their bar business, no one under the age of 18 is to be allowed in the bar day or night. The bar was mentioned frequently in testimony in the investigation of the death of Ruth Schmidt. Oshkosh, who was slain by Vernon Dillman, Oshkosh.

Administration to Review Pay at Colleges, University

Post-Crescent Madison Bureau

Madison — How much should state college and university teachers be paid?

It is an old question in state politics, up for review again as the new Democratic state administration readies its budget recommendations for the new legislature. State college and university regents, however, appeared to emphasize it more heavily as they testified before Gov.-elect Gaylord Nelson at appropriation hearings last week. Nelson as a candidate had proposed a more generous pay schedule for state higher education institution faculties.

Average Pay A substantial portion of the heavy increases in spending allowances asked by the colleges and the University of Wisconsin is represented in proposed raising of salary levels, for all ranks, from the junior instructor to the senior professor.

The average university professor now earns $10,052. The university wants to raise that to $11,300 for next year. Other pay scales are in proportion to rank. Thus, the average instructor now gets $5,068, and he is proposed for $5,700 next year—assuming the school's fiscal proposal is enacted.

Nelson was told that the average state college professor today is paid $7,856. The colleges propose to raise that to $9,612.

The average college instructor now gets $5,581. He would get $6,466 next year under the proposed budget. The university and the colleges propose further boosts in all ranks for the second year of the new biennium, in 1960-61.

The figures are not readily comparable with other pay practices in the state government service, as independent critics of state budget affairs have pointed out. Most of the teachers are paid on the basis of a 10 - month employment year. Some of them have summer teaching jobs, under separate pay arrangements.

Menominees Plan Manner Of Control

Seek Corporation To Manage Land After Termination

Post-Crescent Madison Bureau

Keshena — Legal plans for the organization of a proposed corporation to take over control and management of all Menominee Indian tribal property with the termination of federal government control have been prepared, the tribe's coordinating and negotiating committee has announced.

The voting trust agreement involved in the formation of the corporation and the state legislation that will be offered to the 1959 legislature will be before the tribe's general council in its meetings scheduled for Jan. 9 and 10, it was said.

The plan for collective tribal resource management has been drafted by a firm of legal experts, and was described earlier to the state Menominee Indian commission which is assisting the tribe in preparing a plan for termination of federal control to be submitted to the U.S. Secretary of the Interior.

Chose County

Tribal members voted several weeks ago in favor of the organization of their lands as a separate county, by act of the new legislature.

The proposed trust agreement for the administration and protection of the interests of minor members of the tribe is now before the U.S. bureau of Indian affairs for review.

Details of the termination plan are due in the department of interior in Washington by Feb. 1.

The coordinating and negotiating committee explained that the "plan when acted upon by the tribe will without doubt be the most important act in our history."

Valdes Meets Pat McMurtry

Nino 7-5 Choice to Win 5th Straight Bout Tonight

New York —P— Nino Valdes risks his lofty ranking and Pat McMurtry gets his big chance tonight in a televised heavyweight bout at Madison Square garden.

Nino's voluble manager Bobby Gleason already has claimed the title for the 6-3 Cuban giant with the 81-inch reach.

McMurtry's manager, his father, is particularly upset because his son didn't make the top 10 in the National Boxing association ratings after he whipped George Chuvalo in the Garden Oct. 17. Ring was more impressed, placing him No. 10 among Floyd Patterson's contenders.

Sorry for Champ

"I'm ready for the champ right now," said McMurtry, who hails from Tacoma, Wash. He is 26.

His career record, dating back to 1954, is 30-2-1.

Big Nino, rated No. 2 by Ring and No. 4 by the NBA, is the man who really is taking a chance after dropping a questionable decision to Alex Miteff in February, he has won five in a row.

He hasn't fought since Aug. 15 but is a 7-5 favorite.

The Cuban was 34 Dec. 5. He has been fighting pro since 1941, compiling a 46-15-2 record.

AHS, Vike Tilts Tonight To be Played

Both the Chicago-at-Lawrence college and Manitowoc-at-Appleton high school basketball games slated for this evening will be played, as scheduled, according to announcements made this morning.

The Terror-Central jayvee game will also be played, school officials said, despite the bomb scare which closed the city's schools.

'Ziggy' Thompson to Retire as Wayne's Athletic Director in '59

Sixty-four-year-old Alden "Ziggy" Thompson, who once starred as an Appleton High school basketball player, later gained fame as a Lawrence college end, Friday announced plans to retire as Wayne State university's director of athletics and health education.

Thompson, who has been at Wayne for the last 13 years and a distinguished career in Lakes Naval Training Center, athletics administration, said he will retire next Aug. 15. He will be 65 June 7.

Physician's Advice

Thompson told a staff meeting his decision was based on his physician's advice and a Manly Thompson, also resides desire to relax and take life easier on farm and lake acreage he owns in Michigan.

Thompson, a native of Appleton, began his athletic and coaching career in 1916 at Wausau, Wis., where he was named high school coach and city director of physical education at Battle Creek, Mich., in 1919.

Thompson was state director of Michigan interscholastic athletics 1924-31 and state director of physical and health education from 1927-33.

He taught at West Chester State Teachers college, Pa., in 1933 and 1934.

From 1934 to 1937, he was director of physical and health education at Grand Rapids, leaving to become dean of physical education at Western Michigan university.

At Great Lakes

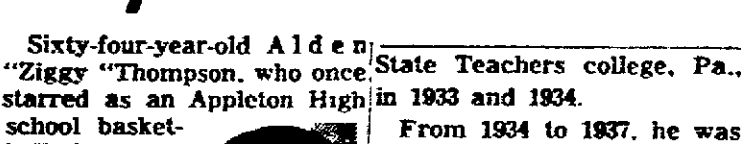

During World War II, he was with the Federal Security Agency as a field representative in industrial plants area and with the Navy as officer-in-charge of physical training and recreation at the Great Lakes Naval Training Center.

Thompson's mother, Mrs. William E. Thompson, lives here with Alden's sister, Mrs. George Wegenke, 511 N. Division street. A brother, C. Manly Thompson, also resides here.

Played on Custer '11

After playing for Mark Catlin, Sr., at Lawrence college, Thompson entered the army. He played football for the Camp Custer team, which was coached by Fielding Yost. Howell Surprised Over Giant Climb

Says '58 Team Is Fightingest, Most Determined He's Had

New York —P— Jim Lee Howell looks you straight in the eye when he tells you that nobody — but nobody — is more surprised than he over the New York Giants' amazing climb into a first-place Eastern conference deadlock with the Cleveland Browns.

The tall Giant coach watched his squad persevere through its next-to-last stiff workout for the big playoff game Sunday against the Browns for the right to meet Baltimore in the NFL title game.

"This is not a real good team," he said earnestly "It's the most determined, fightingest group I've ever coached, but it still makes mistakes and is still learning. I honestly thought we'd never get as far as we have."

"When the season started I didn't think we'd win more than four games. And if I had known about all those injuries I'd have said we'd be lucky to win more than two games."

To what did he attribute the Giants' 9-3 record?

"A good defense, a good bench. Spirit, hustle, will to win, increasing confidence with each victory. Harmony and unity," he said.

"It's a real team in every sense of the word. Every player is a coach. They help each other, cheer each other, point out each other's mistakes. They make it easy for the coaches."

Howell proudly pointed to team statistics which showed the Giants first in the league in defense against rushing and against passing.

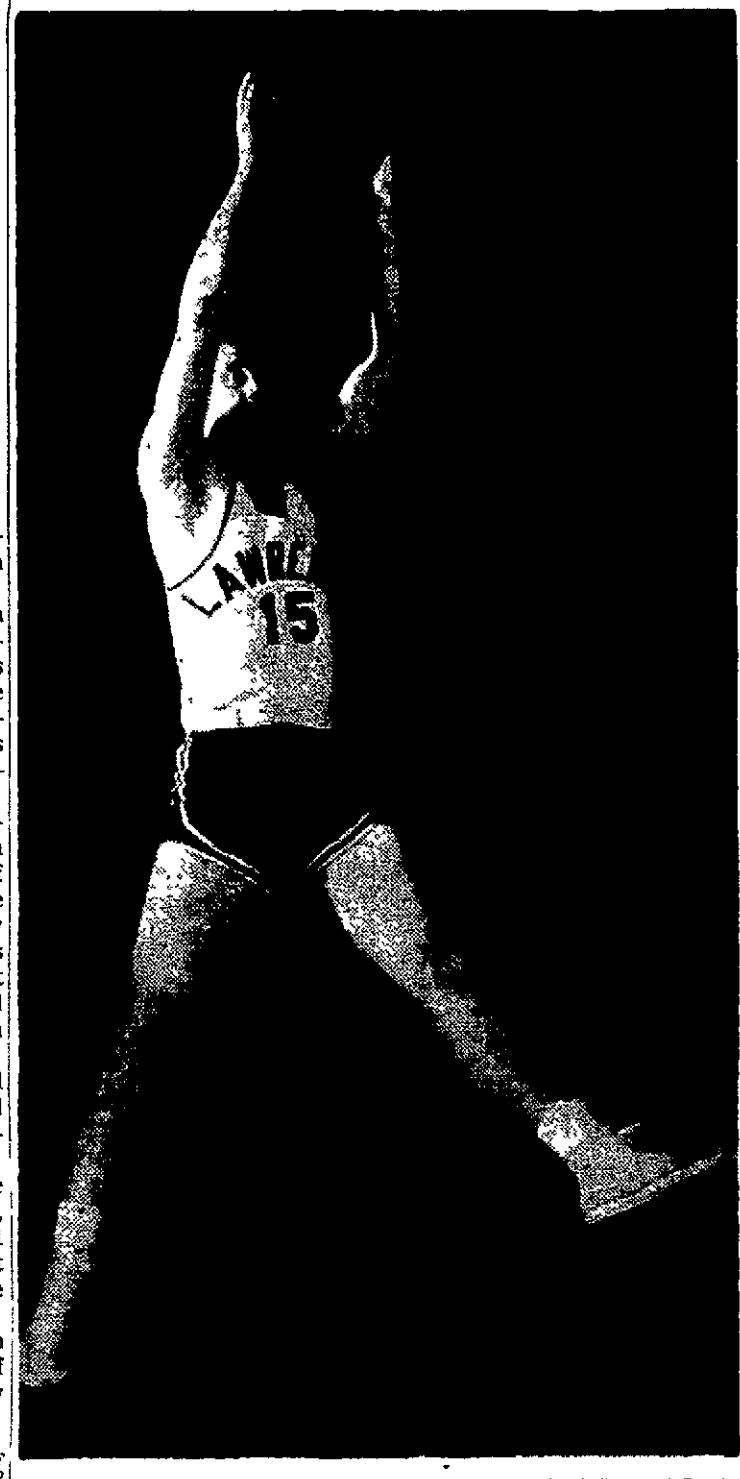

"I showed those figures to the boys just a few minutes ago," said Howell. "I also pointed out that our Jim Patterson was No. 1 in pass interceptions. They were mighty proud of that. They jokingly referred to themselves as the triple crown champions."

At Least Four Members of Coaching Staff to Stay on Duty Until After Draft Meeting

BY ART DALEY Post-Crescent News Service

Green Bay — The Packers ran out of coaches today. Assistants Nick Skorich, Jack Morton and "Breezy" Reid submitted their resignations this morning to Dominic Olejniczak, president of Green Bay Packers, Inc.

The entire staff disappeared in one week. Defense Coach Ray Richards, former head coach of the Chicago Cardinals, announced his retirement Monday in Los Angeles. He's going into business.

And, Head Coach Ray McLean resigned unexpectedly Wednesday afternoon to take over as backfield coach of the Detroit Lions.

Olmedo, Richardson Beat Italians In Single Tests

Perth, Australia —P— A nervous Alex Olmedo played his first Davis cup match, and poised Ham Richardson sent the United States off to a 2-0 lead over Italy today in the interzone tennis final.

Olmedo, a 22-year-old Peruvian from the University of Southern California who never before had even seen a Davis cup competition, shook off an early case of jitters and defeated the flashy Italian champion, Nicola Pietrangeli, 5-7, 10-8, 6-0, 6-1.

14 In A Row

Pietrangeli, his fine game in tatters, won only one of the last 16 games — dropping 14 in a row at one stage.

Tenn Richardson, a former Rhodes Scholar from Arlington, Va., stepped front and center at the Royal Kings Park club and, despite the 90-degree temperature cut down to titanic, 6-7 Orlando Sirola, 6-4, 6-2, 7-5.

Now Richardson and Olmedo, who hold the U.S. doubles championship, get a chance to clinch the zone final Saturday against the same pair.

The Americans are favored to win the doubles although Pietrangeli and Sirola, in six years of Davis cup play together, have lost only two matches.

Schoendienst Hopes to Play By July

Milwaukee —P— "Red" Schoendienst, 35-year-old Milwaukee Braves second baseman, said Thursday he hopes to be out of the hospital and back on the baseball diamond by July.

A patient in a St. Louis hospital, Schoendienst is suffering from tuberculosis. When the disease was discovered last month physicians said they didn't believe he'd be able to play next year.

The July date was set by Schoendienst who said, "That's my thinking."

"That's how good I feel. I feel so good it scares me. But we've got to wait and see how I heal. My doctor is encouraging. He knows I want to get out and play and I just know that I'll be able to get out of here and play again next season."

Albuquerque, N. M. — Jimmie Martinez, 151, Glendale, Ariz., outpouted Armando Muniz, 151, Mexico City, 10.

Bill Barnes Signed as UCLA Coach

Los Angeles —P— UCLA has hired Bill Barnes, long time aide of the late "Red" Wilbur Johns, athletic director, announced Thursday that the 41-year-old Barnes has signed a contract. He said it extends beyond one year, but he declined to say exactly how long. The salary is believed to be $15,000 a year.

Barnes replaces George Dickerson, who suffered a nervous collapse last fall shortly after he replaced Sanders. Sanders died of a heart attack just before the football season opened.

Badgers to Duel Huskies Tonight

Seek Third Win in Nightcap Of Doubleheader at Madison

Madison —P— Wisconsin's basketball team, defeated in its first three games but victorious since then over Notre Dame and Missouri, will be challenged tonight by Washington, rated a contender in the Pacific Coast conference race.

Wisconsin meets the Huskies in the second game of a doubleheader matching Iowa and California in the first conference game in 1950 test, starting at 7 p.m. The teams move over to Iowa and, Hook artist Bruno Boin leads the offensive charge of the Washington team which includes 11 lettermen.

Rebounding Improves

Wisconsin Coach "Bud" Foster said his Badgers cannot win if they shoot, but their first assignment will be to get losing by only three points to the rebounds.

In their early defeats the Badgers were failures of the boards and were forced to resort to pattern play that netted them few points. In triumphs, the rebounding improved and the Badgers came up with a fast break that produced winning points.

"We've been working our heads off on that fast break," Foster said.

Washington, under William "Tippy" Dye, also uses the fast break. The Huskies have won three games this season and lost two, both of them to the conference crown in 1950.

When Wisconsin finished second in the second game of a doubleheader matching Iowa and California in the first conference game in 1950 test, starting at 7 p.m. The teams move over to Iowa and, Hook artist Bruno Boin leads the offensive charge of the Washington team which includes 11 lettermen.

Last Week's Results:
Oshkosh 54, North 42.
West 52, Appleton 25.
Manitowoc 66, East 25.

Separated from a 3-game winning streak at Green Bay West last Friday, Appleton's Junior basketball Terrors will try to bounce back tonight against Manitowoc. Tip-off time in the AHS gym is 8:45.

The 53-35 loss at West dropped the AHS jayvees into a 6-way tie for second place. The only Fox Valley conference's remaining unbeaten JV entry is Oshkosh. However, with Varsity Coach Ron Nord having dropped four players from this squad, it is likely he'll dip into the JV ranks and move some of the top players up to fill the gaps.

Marty Schultz and Tom Longiro, who tallied 10 of their team's 12 field goals, were the only Junior Terrors able to find the range at West. Schultz has been the team's leading scorer in the three of the four games to date.

Manitowoc, which lost, 37-32, to North in its first start, ran up the highest point total of the JV season last Friday in a 60-30 victory.

Sugar Bowl vs. Jim's.
American Legion vs. Pond's.

Defending champion Pond's Sports, which hasn't been going anywhere in the 1958-9 Major AAA basketball race, knocked Larry's Ambulance from a share of first place Thursday night with a 65-42 win.

Meanwhile, the Adler Brau-Foxes were trimming Jim's Bar, 53-45, to remain unbeaten.

Dick Emanuel collected 19 points to lead Pond's which ran up a big 20-5 point edge in the third quarter. The Foxes were down, 28-26, at the half but went in front, 41-34, after three quarters. Big Earl Furlow coined 17 for the Foxes. Dick Watson hit 13 for Jim's.

IPC gained a third place tie with a 57-54 overtime win over Sugar Bowl. Don Carlson hit three free throws and Tony Steber two for the winners in the extra session. The game was tied 52-all at the end of regulation time. Carlson and St. Joseph defeated St. Mary, 49-46, earlier in the week for its second straight Appleton Recreation department Boys Church League victory.

Pat Derby and Jack Zanzig hit 14 points each for the winners while Van Groll counted 14 for St. Mary. M. Olive trimmed St. Matthew, 49-32, as Ed Miller whipped in 18 for M. Olive and Phil Bartel collected 10 for St. Matthew.

First Methodist was a 42-20 winner over Zion. Steve LeFevre's 20 points led the victors. Ken Weiss tallied 15 for Zion.

Browns Respect Giants' Tight Aerial Defense

Cleveland — (U) — Don't expect the Cleveland Browns to fill the air with passes Sunday on their return to Yankee stadium—even though Coach Paul E. Brown has indicated his club will pass more than last Sunday.

For one thing, the New York Giants have been tough to pass against. For another, Browns' quarterback Milt Plum lacks experience.

The Giants, who beat the Browns 13-10 in their last encounter to tie things up at the top of the Eastern Conference standings and force a playoff, have allowed opponents to complete only 45.7 per cent of their pass attempts. This is the best record in the National Football league.

Against the Browns, opponents have completed 51.9 per cent.

Colavito 1st In Slugging Mantle, Cerv Tie for 2nd In AL Race

Chicago — (U) — "Rocky" Colavito, Cleveland's hard-hitting outfielder, led the American league last season in slugging with a .620 average.

Colavito finished far ahead of New York's Mickey Mantle, Kansas City's Bob Cerv and the 1957 champion Ted Williams of Boston. Mantle and Cerv climaxed the season with identical .592 averages and Williams, who won with a mark of .731 last year, finished fourth with a .584.

Colavito had 302 total bases in 489 times at bat. Mantle drew the most bases on balls, 129. In 1957 he led the league with 147. Of Mickey's 129 passes, 13 were intentional.

The champion Yankees led the league in team slugging with a .416 average. Cleveland was second with .403.

College Grid Coaches' Increased Stress on Defense Pays Off

BY HUGH FULLERTON, JR., Associated Press Sports Writer

College football in 1957 experienced its lowest scoring season in a decade. National Collegiate Athletic Association statistics for the 1958 season, still incomplete, indicate that the over-all average was just about the same

The reason? Coaches have been devoting more time to defense than they did a few years ago; they have taught defenders to out-manuever the blockers and the results are good.

That's the consensus of nearly 200 press box experts replying to the Associated Press post-season football questionnaire.

Defenses Strong Enough
Even though the principal trend noted this year by the same sports writers and broadcasters was a swing toward more varied, imaginative and wide open offenses, they considered the defenses strong enough to control most of the games.

About 35 pointed specifically to the T and split-T formations whose popularity seems to have declined this year. The defenses have learned to stop plays from those formations, and although coaches have tried new, or different attacks, they haven't yet come up with a style that can't be stopped. A quarterback no longer can call a play in the huddle to penetrate a certain defensive alignment and expect it to gain. He has to look again and often change when the teams line up.

Illinois Plays NYU '5' in TV Contest

By The Associated Press
Illinois, bolstering its rating as a Big Ten darkhorse, is host to New York University in a regionally televised basketball game Saturday afternoon.

The Illini's only defeat in four starts was to Marquette, 69-53. In that game, Illinois played without Governor Vaughn, second leading scorer for the team with a 12-point average.

In addition to Vaughn, Illinois' balanced attack includes Roger Taylor with a 14.8 average, John Wessels, Ed Perry and Marnie Jackson. The last three are averaging near 10 points.

Five Big Ten teams take on intersectional rivals tonight. Unbeaten Northwestern opens its bid in the Louisville tourney, Ohio State makes its start in the Kentucky tourney, Indiana is at Oregon State and Wisconsin faces Washington and Iowa meets California in a double-header in Madison.

Crandall Hits Representatives For Salary Proposal Methods

Milwaukee — (U) — Del Crandall of the Milwaukee Braves said Thursday the player representatives were wrong in not asking permission of the players before taking up the controversial salary proposal with club owners.

Crandall, the player representative for the Braves, said: "We felt then that it was the best way to approach the problem at the time of the major-minor league meetings in Washington, D. C. We had to do it the way we did, but it probably would have been better if we had waited until the spring."

Crandall said he believes asking permission of the players was not enough time. The representatives asked the owners to set aside 20 per cent of each club's gross income for player salaries. The owners rejected the proposal and a few said that total salaries already exceed that figure.

Holiday Cage Tournaments, Open Tonight

Kentucky Plays OSU, North Carolina Meets Notre Dame

By The Associated Press

The merry whirl of holiday basketball tournaments starts spinning in full swing tonight. Four college festivals in the South tonight launch this frantic period that will stretch past New Year's day.

Second-ranked Kentucky (6-0), host in its own sixth annual invitational, meets Ohio State (1-2) after seventh-ranked West Virginia (6-1), the tournament's defending titlist, has played Oklahoma State (2-2).

Tenth-ranked North Carolina (3-0) faces Notre Dame (1-3) in the first game of the third annual Blue Grass festival. Northwestern (3-0), listed sixth nationally, goes against host Louisville (4-2) in the afterpiece.

Pairings for the sixth annual Birmingham classic are thirteenth-ranked Auburn (3-0) vs. Wyoming (2-3) and Alabama (3-2) vs. Texas A&M (4-0).

Citadel Plays Georgia

The Citadel (3-1) is the host in its first invitational and meets Georgia (3-1) in the second game. Miami, Fla., (4-2) clashes with Florida State (3-1) in the opener.

Tennessee, No. 5, was the only member of the nation's top 10 teams in action Thursday night. The undefeated Vols overcame a five-point halftime deficit to whip Davidson, 67-52, for their fifth straight victory.

Bradley (No. 11) posted its fifth triumph in a row by walloping Nebraska, 85 - 48, while eighteenth-ranked Pitt bowed to Westminster (Pa.), 78-63, for the Panthers' second setback in five starts.

Canine Sentries Used At Army Missile Sites

Chatsworth, Calif. — (AP) — Sentries at a nearby army missile site are named Fritz, Pupsie, Buddy and Junior.

They're German and Belgian shepherds, picked for their aggressiveness. "And don't let the names fool you," cautioned M. Sgt. Ben Mullins, chief dog trainer. "They're tough."

The dog guards are the first of many to be stationed at other Los Angeles area Nike Hercules installations.

The canine soldiers and their trainers have had intensive training at Ft. Benning, Ga.

Six Arkansas University Gridders Punished In Beating Incident

Fayetteville, Ark. —(AP)— Six University of Arkansas football players have been suspended or placed on probation for their role in an attack on a professor and another man, school officials announced Thursday.

The six were pushing a stalled car up an ice-coated hill near the university last Friday when another car coming downhill brushed fenders with the first vehicle.

Police said a fist fight developed and Prof. James G. Gouge, an instructor in agricultural economics, and William Davis, a graduate student in the college of agriculture, were beaten up.

Holiday Bowl Game Will Draw 10,000

St. Petersburg, Fla. —(AP)— A pair of unbeaten teams with high-powered defenses battle for the national small college football championship Saturday before a Holiday bowl crowd of some 10,000 persons and national television audience.

Both Arizona State of Flagstaff and Northeastern Oklahoma State are expected to put on a wide-open show that could rival the excitement of last year's Holiday Bowl clash in which Pittsburg (Kan.) State nipped Hillsdale (Mich.) college, 27-26.

Each team has averaged better than four touchdowns a game this season in rolling over all opposition.

CBS will telecast at 1 p. m., CST.

Finds More Dignity Before God Than on Psychiatrist Couch

Honolulu —(AP)— Americans are getting off psychiatrists' couches to kneel before God. "And thank goodness," says the national commander of the American Legion, Preston J. Moore of Stillwater, Okla.

In a radio address he observed that "Americans are beginning to find out that there is more human dignity in kneeling before God than in lying on a couch before a psychiatrist."

He said our failure to teach real patriotism was responsible for the communists' successful brain washing of some American prisoners of war in Korea.

The 1958-9 Waupaca High school basketball team presents a good argument to those who picture sports stars as having muscles all over, including between the ears.

According to Comet Gil Daniel, the boy with the lowest scholastic average on his current quintet is a "B-minus" student. Three of the five starters—Jim Danielson, Fred Spiegler and Ken Rushford—are "A" or "A-minus" caliber. A fourth starter—Al Larkee—is a "B" plus scholar, while Tom Lewis alternates between "B-minus" and "C-plus."

Daniel credits the brainpower of his club with much credit for the Comets' success thus far. (Going into tonight's big game with Bon-duel, Waupaca has won seven of eight starts, overall, and has a 5-0 mark in Central Wisconsin conference play.) "They're very adaptable," Gil says. "This is especially important in teaching defense and I have been changing my defenses from game to game, depending on the opposition."

"Some clubs can't learn a new defense in just a few drills. Also," Daniel continues, "it's easy to make halftime changes with this team."

Waupaca's showing this winter is especially remarkable in light of the fact that the Comets captured just two while losing 12 league starts last season. Daniel's first as head coach. Gil is a former Shawano High and Whitewater college cage star.

"Paca has a shiny new gym to play in this year but Daniel doesn't think that's had much to do with the team's improvement. The gym, and the team's winning record, have picked up attendance."

Danielson Tops Scorers

The structure, which seats about 1,300 was three-quarters filled for the season's opener, with Stevens Point, but attendance hasn't been as good in three subsequent home dates.

Danielson—a 6-3 center who is also president of the band—is the club's top pointmaker thus far with a 21.8 average. Spiegler, a 6-0 guard is the No. 2 scorer with an average of about 16 points per game, while 6-1 forward Rushford has averaged about 13 per contest.

Larkee, a 5-8 forward, is the top defensive player while Lewis, a 5-9 guard, is the playmaker.

Spiegler's case is especially remarkable. He saw little action as a freshman or sophomore and played most of his junior season with the jayvees. He worked at a Lake Geneva boys' camp last summer and played basketball every day, perfecting good jump and drive-in shots.

Daniel says it feels good to

To Your Good Health

Heater Without Vent or Pipe Very Dangerous, Says Molner

By Joseph G. Molner, M. D.

"Dear Dr. Molner: We have a 1-burner kerosene heater that we use at night in cold weather. It has no vents or pipes. Is there any danger or harm from fumes? It is not in our bedroom, but an adjacent room. — F.C.H."

Dr. Molner: Yes, it's dangerous. It doesn't matter whether you burn kerosene, oil, coal, wood or some other fuel. All fire requires oxygen. If enough oxygen leaks into the room — fine! But if, especially in cold weather when everything is closed up tight, the flame does not get enough oxygen, it will throw carbon monoxide into the room, instead of carbon dioxide. And carbon monoxide is a dangerous poison. You can't smell it or see it, but it is deadly. Always provide a flu or vent for any heater that burns fuel.

Useless Home Remedy

"Dear Dr. Molner: My mother is taking parsley tea, made from fresh parsley and boiling water. She also takes lithia tablets in water, an old remedy someone told her about for weak bladder. If you tell me it's wrong, I'll tell her so. It does not help her too much. — Mrs. C."

You don't need to have me tell you — you've already answered the question: "It does not help her too much." You mean, of course, that it doesn't help at all. Medically there's no reason to expect that these remedies would help. It'll probably take another 100 years or so for these hopeful, usually useless, old home remedies to die out.

"Dear Dr. Molner: I recently read in a magazine that hair sprays, when slightly inhaled, are dangerous to one's health. What is your opinion? S.L."

I don't know of any special peril in hair sprays, but my advice is to use them on your hair instead of inhaling them.

On Antibuse

"Dear Dr. Molner: You once mentioned a drug that would make a person violently ill when he takes any alcohol. 1. What is it? 2 — Can it be given without the knowledge of the patient? 3 — How much can be given without danger? 4 — Can it be given in coffee or milk? 5 — Can the drug be obtained without prescription? — J.C."

The drug is antibuse, and I'm sorry I mentioned it. I said at the time that it wouldn't make sober people out of drunks unless they want to stay sober. And in that case they don't really need the antibuse.

The most important element of breaking the alcohol habit, bar none, is wanting to break it. Dosage varies according to the individual; it certainly must not be given without the patient's knowledge and permission, for legal, moral and medical reasons. You can't get it except by prescription, because too much can be dangerous. In short, it's nothing for an amateur to fool with, and it rarely is useful for the experts, except in selected cases.

No Basis In Fact

"Dear Dr. Molner: Do grapes, cherry, orange and other small fruit seeds help to clean out the intestines? — M.H."

No. The notion of cleaning out the intestines has no basis in fact. You don't have to other 100 years or so for these clean out your throat after hopeful, usually useless, old you eat dinner. The same is true of the intestinal tract.

Holder of Mutual Fund Shares May Turn Them in for Cash on Any Day

BY WILLIAM A. DOYLE

Q. I would like to ask a few questions about closed-end and open-end investment companies.

1. What is the difference between the two types?

2. What is the difference in costs to the investor and why?

3. Which is better for me?

Doyle: I am a conservative person, know little about finance and am interested in growth investments.

A. The real difference between the two is that an open-end investment company (popularly called a mutual fund) stands ready to redeem

Bird in Dog License Bureau Considered An 'Overhead Item'

San Francisco —(AP)— The dog license counter of the city tax collector's office was worrying about an overhead item. The item was a pigeon. The little grey visitor was trapped between skylight and ceiling above the counter. J. R. Hooper, a city operating engineer, tried coaxing the pigeon back up a round sheet-metal vent.

Pigeon ignored him. He built a ladder and lowered it into the vent. Pigeon wouldn't climb.

Arthur Germaine, of the Society for the Prevention of Cruelty to Animals, got in the act yesterday. He found an opening between roof and the interior ceiling. He slipped through, cut a hole in the ventilation shaft, thrust in a butterfly net and released the pigeon.

its shares. A holder of mutual fund shares may turn in these shares on any business day and receive cash. The amount of cash received will usually be equal to the net asset value of the shares, except in the case of those funds that charge a small (1 or 2 per cent) redemption fee.

Continuous Offer

In general practice most mutual funds continuously offer shares to the public. In most cases the cost to the buyer is the net asset value, plus a sales (load) charge of about 7 1/2 to 8 per cent. This load doesn't go to the fund. It goes to the dealers and sales organizations that sell the funds to the public. After all, the salesmen have to earn a living.

Some funds have a very small load charge or none at all. They can operate that way because they are not connected with any big sales organization.

Shares of closed-end investment companies are traded either on a stock exchange or in the over-the-counter market. Because they cannot be redeemed, their price may be equal to the net asset value or above or below it. The cost to the buyer will be market price, plus the broker's commission. The holder of a closed-end trust's shares will also have to pay another commission when he or she sells the shares.

Shares of those mutual funds that do not continuously offer additional shares are also traded in the over-the-counter market. This confuses a lot of people, but they are open-end investment companies because the shares can be redeemed. In these cases, the shares usually trade at a premium over asset value.

Operating Expenses

In addition to these costs, all investment companies have operating expenses.

That's normal. It costs money to run any business. The average yearly total operating expenses are about 1 1/2 per cent of net assets. In some cases, it's a good deal lower. In some, it's higher.

Which type is better for you? I have no idea. You may find some closed-enders and some mutual funds that suit your objective. Since you want growth, it would be natural for you to pick one that has all, or most, of its assets invested in common stock. But, because you are conservative, you won't want one that has too much in risky situations.

Q. I want to speculate about $2,500 in stocks. Preston East Dome Mines and National Research have been recommended to me. Do you agree that these two have speculative possibilities?

A. Possibilities, yes. But that's as far as I'll go. These two are speculations. In the true sense of the word—with all the risk that goes along with it.

So, if you have spare cash and really know what you are doing, go ahead, give them a try. If you lose, don't blame anyone but yourself.

Safety Council Says: Holiday Spirit Should Come From the Heart, Not Bottle

BY EDWARD S. KITCH

Chicago —(AP)— Come Christmas party season, strong spirits will deny death its holiday.

The National Safety council is predicting between 500 and 650 traffic deaths for this year's 4-day Christmas weekend. During the last 4-day Christmas holiday in 1956, 885 persons died or received fatal injuries in traffic accidents.

Fifty-five per cent of all the Christmas holiday accidents last year involved a drinking driver, says the National Safety council. It maintains office parties are one of the important culprits.

Speed was a factor in 72 per cent of the smashups.

New Method

Against this, authorities in many areas plan a new method of attack called "selective enforcement." Police manpower and patrol cars will be increased, and concentrated in known high accident sections to head off the drinker.

Britain Announces Loan to Yugoslavia

London —(AP)— Britain Thursday announced a $8,400,000 loan offer to Yugoslavia — a move to help that country withstand a Soviet economic squeeze.

The Yugoslav government has not yet formally replied to the offer, which falls far below the $42 million worth of credit President Tito's government had requested.

British Undersecretary of State for Foreign Affairs John Profumo told the house of commons:

"The purpose of the loan is to help Yugoslavia to purchase certain capital and semi-capital goods in the United Kingdom and to further the policy of economic cooperation between the two countries which has existed for the past 10 years to the advantage of both."

Here are their scores: Fifty-four per cent of traffic deaths last year occurred at night.

Over Limit

Thirty-eight per cent of them involved a driver exceeding the speed limit.

Thirty per cent of them involved a driver who had been drinking.

Among pedestrian fatalities, 50 per cent of the victims were crossing between intersections. Another 17 per cent stepped from behind parked cars.

If the Christmas reveler wants to live to celebrate New Year's, the safest thing he can do—says the safety council—is stay sober and drive slowly.

Harridge's Last AL Christmas Party Is the Most Memorable

By Charles Chamberlain

Chicago —(AP)— Only a score of hangers-on still were at the bar.

Several hours earlier Thursday night the room was crammed with 500 guests.

The twenty-third annual American League Christmas party had ended—the last one to be given by Will Harridge.

Harridge finally turned to his remaining friends.

"Guess it's time for me to go," he said. "See you at the ball games."

Next One in Boston

The retiring president of the American League then was helped on with his coat by his son, Bill. He tucked several Christmas-wrapped parcels under his arm and left.

Earlier, the 73-year-old Harridge quipped:

ier a plane and take you newsmen with me there."

Joe Cronin of the Red Sox is expected to replace Harridge, president since 1931.

Harridge, nattily attired as always was his usual glowing, graciously-smiling self throughout the 5-hour stag affair.

It was his official farewell to hundreds of friends—players, former players, club executives, dignitaries from other sports, old cronies of his Wabash railroad days, Comago, he said. "See you at the ball games."

And never did anyone say: "I'll bet Harridge didn't know he had so many friends."

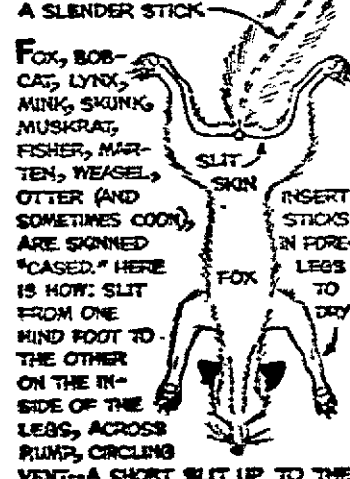

They knew he did.

Group Wants State Aid in Local Welfare

Relief Programs Now Financed by Each Municipality

Post-Crescent Madison Bureau

Madison — The intervention of the state in local general relief programs has been suggested here by the Wisconsin Welfare council, an organization of social workers and private leaders of welfare organizations.

The proposal is a part of the platform of the organization as published here following the annual meeting of the council in Milwaukee.

It asked for state aid and state standards for general assistance to the indigent, historically the responsibility of the localities. It is the only relief program which is exclusively financed and managed by local governments. The state and federal governments are now heavily involved in the financing of the categorical aids disbursed by local relief agencies, and control standards even to the qualification and employment of relief department personnel.

On Contract
The general relief program over the years has tended to contract, with the expansion of the special assistance categories for the aged, dependent children, the blind and the disabled.

But it generally reflects the state of the economy and has been growing during the last year as a result of the recession of employment in many of the larger industrial centers.

Thus last month the number of persons on general relief in the state as a whole was 47 per cent above the corresponding period a year ago, and the amount of grants was up about 63 per cent.

The general relief rolls counted about 31,000 persons, who collected slightly more than a million dollars during the month out of a gross relief disbursement of about $5.5 million.

Hospital Patients Will Have Christmas

Both Institutions Plan Special Events, Meals, Decorations, Music for Holiday

Patients confined to Appleton's two hospitals over the holidays will have Christmas, too.

Both St. Elizabeth and Appleton Memorial hospitals are planning special events to help patients observe Christmas. Appropriate decorations have been hung and both institutions are planning a special meal for Christmas day. Both hospitals also are holding parties for employees.

Christmas trees have been decorated on all floors of each hospital and meal trays on Dec. 25 will be decorated with favors donated by various groups. Carolers have been singing through the corridors of both hospitals for several days and will continue through the holiday.

A midnight mass will be held in the chapel at St. Elizabeth hospital which may be attended by those patients who are able to and wish to.

Santa to Arrive
Santa Claus will make an appearance on Christmas eve to visit with all children and some of the long-time patients. He will give a present and a bag of candy to all youngsters.

Farmers Get Sugar Beet Pay

$1,175,000 in Checks Sent to Midwest Producers

Post-Crescent News Service

Green Bay — Checks amounting to $1,175,000 were mailed to Wisconsin and Illinois farmers today by the Menominee Sugar company of Green Bay.

The checks represent the initial payment on a record crop of 156,000 tons. Two additional payments will be made, one next April and another in September, according to Walter Page, company president.

Although the final price per ton has not been determined since it depends both on sugar content and the market, Page said farmers can expect to profit handsomely. The average yield in Wisconsin this year was 13.17 tons per acre; last year it was 9.94.

Sugar content was down somewhat, but this will be more than offset by the greatly increased yield, Page noted. Moving the crop from the fields to the plant involved more than 3,000 railroad cars and 5,000 truck loads.

The huge volume of beets will require the plant to continue processing operations until about Feb. 25, or about a month longer than usual. This is in spite of the fact that the plant capacity was expanded by 10 per cent, Page pointed out.

This year's crop of 156,000 tons greatly exceeds the record of 105,000 tons set only last year. Up to then the record was 92,000 tons, set in 1940.

Menominee is the only sugar beet processing plant in the state. Approximately 9,000 acres were planted by Wisconsin farmers this year.

School Closing in Green Bay Cost Over $11,000

Green Bay — Cost of closing Green Bay schools because of the Dec. 12 bomb hoax was estimated at more than $11,000 by Mayor Otto Rachals today.

Rachals asked for cost figures of departments involved to illustrate the cost of the prank to city taxpayers.

The board of education reported that about $11,000 in teacher and maintenance salaries was lost. To this the board said costs of such things as fuel would have to be added.

The police department reported assigning 15 men and the fire department 40 men during a 3-hour search at a total cost of $308 which covers only off-duty men called in for the search.

The bomb threat closed all city schools and some in surrounding areas. Cost outside the city is not included.

Wilson pleaded guilty and was fined $107. Game wardens gave Rudolph to the Topeka zoo.

Program Changes Ahead

TV Channels to Switch Networks on Feb. 1

Television Channels 5 and 11 will switch network affiliations with start of programming Sunday, Feb. 1, officials of the stations announced today.

Channel 5, WFRV-TV, Green Bay, will become the NBC-TV outlet. Channel 11, WMBV-TV, Marinette, will become the ABC-TV outlet.

NBC-TV announced a month ago it was switching its programs to Channel 5 and would make the move as soon as Channel 11 officials would permit. The NBC-TV affiliation with the Marinette station was effective by contract to May 23.

An upsurge in the sale of color TV sets in the Fox Cities was predicted by WFRV-TV officials because of the extension of the NBC-TV color programs to a more populated area. Channel 5 is installing color sending equipment.

Channel 11 officials said the station is continuing to press for federal communications commission approval to move sending equipment closer to Green Bay and the Fox Cities.

Spokesmen for both stations said they will announce shortly what programs of their new networks they will be carrying.

23,100 Outgoing Parcels Checked At Post Office

Outgoing parcels at the Appleton Post Office totaled 23,100 Thursday, a record for the year. Only 16,500 parcels were handled on the same day last year.

Postmaster Francis Sumnicht said 13,400 incoming parcels were recorded on Thursday, a figure considerably lower than last year's 21,000 for the same day.

Units of incoming mail reached 289,000 Thursday, the second highest figure in post office history. On Wednesday, 350,000 units were recorded. Last year's peak was 386,000.

Machine cancellations Thursday indicated 160,100 letters would be sent from Appleton, a gain over the 1957 figure of 140,000 for the same day.

Seek Reason for St. Louis Killing

St. Louis — Who had a reason to kill James Bullock, recent bridegroom, whose name wasn't released, into the early hours today.

Yesterday, police put Mrs. Bullock through an hour of intensive questioning. Mrs. Bullock, a pretty brunette, said so far as she knew her husband had no enemies. They had no marital difficulties, the 23-year-old kindergarten teacher said.

Officers emphasized that neither Mrs. Bullock nor Dr. Engleman were questioned as suspects.

They said the dentist and Mrs. Bullock were married for about two years. She obtained a divorce and a $2,500 settlement in 1955 on grounds of non-support, cruelty and desertion.

Pair Met
Police said that Dr. Engleman, who has remarried, told them he had seen Mrs. Bullock occasionally since their divorce. He said she had collected payments on the divorce settlement and received dental treatment.

Dr. Engleman also did part-time dental work for Union Electric Co., where Bullock worked as a $400-a-month clerk.

Officers picked up three .22 rifles and a pistol of the same caliber at Engleman's home. They quoted the dentist as saying he and his family used the guns for target practice.

Shot In Head
Bullock died of two .22 caliber bullet wounds in the head. In addition, his chest was peppered by birdshot.

Bullock also was run over by a car as he lay in the street. But police have determined that he was hit accidentally.

Officers have issued a pick-up order for a stocky-built man wearing a blue cashmere topcoat and a brown hat. He was reported seen pursuing a man who resembled Bullock on a road in the man, at the time Bullock was found dying. Officers continued to question the patient, found.

Question Dentist
Last night, police questioned at length Dr. Glennon E. Engleman, a St. Louis dentist who was divorced 2 1/2 years ago from Mrs. Edna Bullock, the victim's bride of six months.

Officers also questioned a friend of Dr. Engleman. The pursuing a man who resembled Bullock on a road in the man, at the time Bullock was found dying. Officers continued to question the patient, found.

Worker, a clerk by day and a student by night?
That question still puzzled St. Louis police today as they sought the killer who shot Bullock with two guns Mrs. Bullock Wednesday night. Bullock, 27, was found about 7:30 p.m. lying in the street in front of the city art museum. He never regained consciousness, and died as he was placed in an ambulance.

Another question also bothered officers. Mrs. Bullock said her husband left home to attend a class at the University of St. Louis. She said he usually cut through a park on an express highway. Why then was Bullock and his car found at the museum, which was out of his way? Officers believe that Bullock may have given a ride to his killer, and was forced to drive to the museum.

Hospital Buys Therapy Unit
An ultra-sonic machine for use in the physical therapy department has been purchased by Appleton Memorial hospital and is in use now. The piece of equipment was financed through an accumulation of small and medium-sized donations to the institution.

According to James Cone, physical therapist, the apparatus is an electrical oscillator generating a sound frequency of close to one million cycles per second. These vibrations enter the patient's tissue for therapy purposes.
